(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 31.
The news that the Tate Gallery intends to hold an exhibition of cricket pictures will cause a great many people to wonder what exactly are cricket pictures, and what they have to do with art. Cricket pictures are of considerable rarity, and most of those that have come into the market in recent years have been acquired for the M.C.C. collection and by Sir Jeremiah Colman. The pictures that will be shown at the Tate Gallery will be ready for public inspection during the next fortnight, but the date has not yet been settled.

They form the greater part of Sir Jeremiah Colman's private collection and were all saved from the disastrous fire at Gatton Park early this year. They include, as well as the more serious oil-paintings, a number of charming objects relating to the history of cricket, such as embroidered and painted handkerchiefs. Most of the oil-paintings are the work of completely unknown or entirely anonymous artists who flourished between 1750 and 1850, and many of them have a considerable if slightly pedestrian merit as works of art.

THE GALLERY OF SPORT

In the normal course of events it is unlikely, I hear, that an exhibition of this kind, however topical, the interest of which is mainly historical, would have found a home at the Tate. The institution, however, of a separate gallery for sporting pictures of the British School made this exhibition possible as a pendant. Incidentally the present collection of sporting pictures will shortly receive some magnificent additions in the shape of loans from a remarkably fine private collection.

One of the most entertaining works in the exhibition of cricket pictures is "Charles Dickens bowling the first ball at a charity match at Gad's Hill." Mr. Charles Dickens, amid the plaudits and cap-waving of everyone on the field with the exception of the batsman, is clad in frock-coat and silk hat, delivering a spirited and wicked underhand ball.

LAST FORFEITS FOR THE DERBY.

Last forfeits for the Derby have to be declared to the registry office by ten o'clock to-morrow night, and anyone who keeps his horse in after that hour incurs a further liability of £50. On November 1, 1932, the owners of 309 yearlings, buoyed by enthusiasm and optimism entered them for the Derby. The final acceptances on Thursday will show that roughly a tenth of the original entry remain. The owners of 124 out of the 309 found their animals not so good as they had thought, and escaped with a minor forfeit of £25. Later on the enthusiasm of the owners of 114 others cooled, and they paid £25 each to get out. There are now 54 left, and those that remain after to-morrow have to pay £100 for each horse to run.

The total sum received in entry money and forfeits should be nearly £25,000 and there is £25,000 added by the Epsom executive. (It used to be £25,000.) Thus there is a total of £50,000 of which a tenth goes to the owner of the second, a fifth to the owner of the third, while the breeder of the winner receives a premium of £500. The total value of the stake to the owner of this year's winner should therefore be in the neighbourhood of £9,000.

GAIN AND GLORY

This is only a fraction of the monetary value of winning the Derby. Success means that the value of the winner is almost automatically increased by from £15,000 to £20,000 if the owner wishes to sell him. Alternatively, if he wishes to keep him to go to the stud his earnings there will be from £12,000 to £15,000 a year over a period of years if he is successful as a sire, and for at least seven years in any case. It takes about seven years for the merits of a sire's progeny to be well tested.

There are colts still remaining in the Derby whose chances are so remote that they are represented by astronomical odds, yet the owners of a few will pay the last forfeit of £50, incur the expense of sending them to Epsom and pay jockeys to ride them, just to be able to say that they have a horse running in the Derby.

Only one American owner, Mr. William Woodward, will be represented in the race, with his American-bred colt, Bondsman. Mr. Woodward, although he can seldom find the time to visit England, keeps a stud and stable here for sentiment's sake. Before he was a banker he was an attaché at the American Embassy here when Mr. Choate was Ambassador.

R.A.F. HERALDRY

Many must have shared yesterday in the joke enjoyed by the King when the R.A.F. translation of a squadron motto, "Semper aggressor," was explained to him. "Give 'em the works," I should say, was more than the rather rough translation modestly claimed for it.

Idiomatically I should rank it with the rendering of "Veniant omnes"—the motto of the battle-cruiser "Lion"—as "Let 'em all come," which so pleased Lord Fisher.

There are plenty of other R.A.F. Squadron mottos which await translation. No. 32 Squadron's Venite pueri offers obvious colloquial possibilities. No. 27 Bomber Squadron, with the fairly staid "Quam celerissime ad astra," has an elephant for its crest. A bantam is that of No. 43 Bantam Fighters, with the words "Gloria tuis."

No. 7 Bombers have the appropriate motto, "Per diem per noctem." Most elegant is that of No. 204 (Geeplanes), which runs "Orta mari terras et aethera trano"—"Rising from the sea, I fly over lands and cleave the sky."

VARSITY LAWN TENNIS TEAMS

It is interesting to note that of the twelve players in the Oxford and Cambridge lawn tennis match no fewer than five are Americans. Four of these are in the Oxford side. I do not know how high Cecil Rhodes would have ranked lawn-tennis prowess in the list of athletic qualifications he desired in his scholars, but that it is one of the most strenuous of games no one would deny.

The Cambridge side is more cosmopolitan if less Anglo-Saxon. It includes an American, a Siamese, an Indian, and a Chinaman from Hong Kong. Each university has two Englishmen in its team.

TITLE JUSTIFIED

Long practice has improved Miss Elisabeth Bergner's skill in the scene where she hurls books at Hugh Sinclair's philandering head. Her aim when I saw her the other night was unerring.

I was interested to learn that the three books selected for this honour are "The Aspirations of Bulgaria," "Place and Power," and "The Divine Drama."

When the run of the play began, one of the books chosen by the property man to stand on the mantelpiece as missiles of the heroine's wrath was that Victorian classic "Eric."

But in the process of time this came to pieces, "little by little."

THE INDIAN LION

A certain amount of misapprehension seems to have arisen with regard to the new Indian lion which has arrived at the Zoo as a present from the Jam Sahib of Nawangar.

The Indian lion, now a great rarity, is often referred to as the maneless lion. This lack of mane is not, however, due to heredity, but to environment.

Apart from a chance lion in Persia or in the thickets of the Euphrates, the Asiatic lions are almost entirely confined to the Gir Forest.

These lions are carefully protected, only occasionally being shot when they raid flocks or when the Viceroy or the Commander-in-Chief visits the district.

The fact that they still exist at all is due to the thickness of the forest. To that is also due their manelessness, the fur being dragged out in the thorn thickets.

In captivity, however, their manes grow to respectable proportions, though they do not rival those of the African lions.

The African lion, incidentally, increased so much during the war that there is almost a glut in the zoological market. As a Fellow of the Zoological Society said to me yesterday, "You can get quite a nice lion for £20 or £30 nowadays."

U.S. "ISOLATIONIST" TRADITION

When Signor Leonardo Vitelli, the Counsellor of the Italian Embassy in London, returns from America after his honeymoon he will put the finishing touches to his book on American foreign policy since the War of Independence.

At a time when so many politicians in the United States are inclined towards "isolationist" theories, Signor Vitelli shows how old is this tradition of American foreign policy.

For instance, even at the time when French troops and the French navy were supporting the Colonies against Britain, American Secretaries of State were already declaring that their country must not allow France to drag her into European quarrels.

Signor Vitelli is well qualified to write on his subject. He has lectured on American history before the Royal Italian Academy, and was at the Italian Embassy in Washington before his promotion to London.

DICTIONARY FOR DIPLOMATS

Diplomats and students of international affairs will no doubt be interested in the "Dictionnaire Diplomatique" issued by the International Diplomatic Academy in Paris.

The work, which has taken seven years to complete, is in two volumes.

League of Nations supporters will be shocked to find that though the word "War" has forty-five pages allotted to it, there is no heading "Peace." Moreover, the names of M. Briand and President Wilson are not to be found in all its 2,400 pages.

M. Frangulis, the editor, has succeeded in obtaining contributions from 27 heads of States, 48 Chancellors, and 512 Ambassadors. Signor Mussolini has written the article on France, and M. Benes the story of the Little Entente.

TOO MANY COOKS

Spoil the broth, as the saying goes. And too much measuring and mixing may spoil the cake. For every additional process is just one more risk—one more cook whose fingers may queer things. Not one of this beaming quintette would think of depending on chance. They use Simpson's Self-Raising Flour for cakes, as well as pies, bread and all sorts of fancy pastries.

Simpson's Self-Raising Flour is made from finest Australian wheat, scientifically milled and carefully blended. It saves the housewife time and tears.

Summer Fashion Takes To The White Coat

WORN WITH DARK DRESSES

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 31. I have been watching the increasing vogue for the white jacket. In crepe, pique and taffeta, it is one of the smartest notes of the season.

Frenchwomen and other exclusive dressers wear their white coats, hats and gloves with dark dresses. For Ascot we shall see transparent white organdie coats worn over the daintiest floral crepes.

These will be accompanied by wide brimmed hats of black or white straw—very shallow. Low-crowned hats are charming on young girls, but are not comfortable in a high wind.

Like the smart "three-piece," older women have returned to the three cornered hat and some novel styles in turbans. The enormous hats, with fine elastic to hold them, are not for the average woman. For real June days, however, the transparent double-brimmed hats of black crin, net or tulle, dull and shining, with flowers or feathers, can be very charming. Lightness is easier to pin on securely, and is always becoming when worn with trilly frocks.

All-white toilettes will be seen at Ascot, worn with the transparent hat and cape and coat in black, thus reversing the immediate order of things. Yet the most subtle dressers will prefer the newer way and have the outside, white garments and the frocks dark. Fashion has largely managed to return to black-and-white and so good style is assured. This alliance may not sound exciting for summertime, but there are always plenty of gay-coloured cottons and woollies for life in the country.

Delightful sports specialities are in every wardrobe, and one has come to regard darker town clothes as synonymous with good taste—quiet and restrained, yet given the lightest relief by the variety of filmy organdies and gauzes, cotton flowers and trimmings.

When warm days are sunnier there is the new and more substantial coat of white crinkled crepe, taffeta, or pique.

Popular though white is, no modern summer would be complete without the useful printed ensembles. There is a charming variety in cool crepe, in white grounds with a tiny floral or spotted design in black, green, or blue, to be worn with a dark coat, white cambric gloves, and jabot.

Some very novel and striking black and white ensembles are in crepe—the new crinkle kind—the coat and frock all of the same. They can be worn with white accessories or any transparent black. Others in chic printed designs will have a white ground and a white raised design all in organdie. Sometimes a taffeta cape, sash, and hat are added—this is rather an expensive form of dressing suitable for Ascot and suchlike occasions.

Collars Like Capes

The white vogue will be stressed in many ways. Enormous collars will, for the girls, take the place of capes. In fact, many of the new collars are almost the same as capes, being arranged in three distinctive tiers with scalloped edges. Others are made double and stiff, almost like a ruche. These distinctive collars are in a measure a protest to the entirely collarless coats, which can be well worn with dresses that have fanciful collars which are pulled outside; in fact, treated in the same way as the jabot.

It appears that more than ever all forms of clever dressing depend largely on the accessories, which are very elaborate in contrast to great simplicity of cut. Certain hats for Ascot seem exaggerated in their simplicity. Being fine examples of intricate handwork and stitching, they are far from cheap, despite their simple air! Hat styles can all be changed in a few days, so before the great June festival actually arrives bonnets will very likely be the cry! and with them the small Victorian parasols can have their day once more!

One hears of these things, but parasols are difficult to carry with handbags, race card, and glasses. Although to many girls and women Ascot is the great opportunity for dress display, there is also well-dressed racing woman to whom an elaborate parasol would be a tiresome handicap. Her shady brimmed hat generally makes appeal for the paddock.

Organdie Cre Suits

There are many attractive tailored ensembles destined specially for this season. Organdie-cre in all-black or all-white can make up into a charming semi-masculine little suit, worn with light hat, jabot, gloves, and natural flowers arranged as a spray on a severe rever of the coat.

Some grey silk taffeta suits show a shorter "swagger" coat with a pleated skirt. White china buttons emphasise other white accessories. There is something chic about these fine summery fabrics, perfected under the tailor's iron, and relieved by the most feminine details to give the required note of frivolity and lightness.

This season's youth can be as flamboyant and picturesque as it pleases, but the very "chic" dresser will probably try for a more individual appearance.

LANE, CRAWFORD'S

There is nothing like a smart and saucy hat, set one of these on your head at a jaunty angle and notice the perky appearance that it makes. You feel too the lightness of the material, the cool comfortable weight. These are exactly what Lane, Crawford's are showing this week. The newest they have in are a few in Alpaca some with the large brims and others in The "Halo" style. Then there are some very smart light weight felts in white.

UNDER COST

Miss Naylor, is having a special sale of dresses, some going even under cost, these little dresses are very smart and serviceable too for that price. She is expecting a new shipment of very attractive afternoon and evening dresses and all these are all moderately priced.

FEW BUT SELECT

Miss Rivelle, has a few, but very select evening dresses in organdie and in many attractive shades amongst which was a very pretty one in Lemon. This special model has the very wide flared skirt with a little cape sleeve and coatee to match.

WASHABLE "EVENINGS"

For this sort of weather there's nothing better for evening wear, than evening dresses that are washable, and this week Eve is making a special display of all her Washable Evening Gowns, in Silks nets and Organdies.

MORE NEW DRESSES

Mayo's, have received a nice little shipment of American dresses, which are very reasonably priced, and I would advise those that are looking for pretty summer dresses to call in and inspect them.

BEAUTY PREPARATIONS

Maizee's are expecting a big shipment of Helena Rubinstein's Beauty Preparations and they have in just now some beautiful organdie flowers that would go with these washable evening dresses. Then there are some very attractive hats and what a selection too, in light felts and straws and fabrics all very smart!

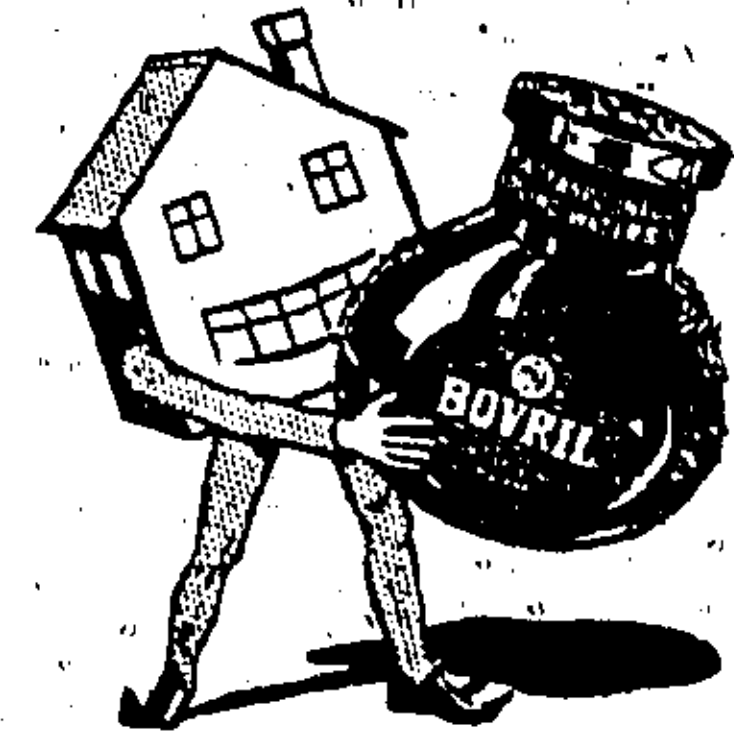

THE "EUNICE" CUT

Eunice continues to replete her ever decreasing collection of inexpensive summer frocks some of which are priced as low as $10.50 which is extraordinarily reasonable for gowns that have precisely the same care and attention to details that higher priced gowns have. The "Eunice" $10.50 gown is a very conservative specimen of many years experience in dress designing.

And what is more important, these less expensive frocks all fit perfectly, don't shrink when washed and are cut and finished in the usual "Eunice" manner.

What The Well-Dressed Woman Is Doing

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 31.
The Four Piece Cruising Set
A London dress designer has created an ideal "set" for the cruising girl—a four-piece ensemble. This consists of a top coat in ice white double coating, uncrushable shantung, designed to be worn with the latest five-eighth length jumper in blue and white. This five-eighth length reaches midway between the hip and knee-line. The jumper has halter sleeves and is worn either with white shantung shorts or a knee-length wrap-over skirt. The fourth piece in the ensemble is a combined brassiere and slip tailored in white shantung to match shorts and top coat.

gloves, gauntlets and necktie with dark suits. Silk is still a favourite in the taffeta line, but only as a contrast with dark plain wool or silk.
For practical summer wear women are turning to the attractive models in novelty linens, which are almost uncrushable, and look particularly well in tailored styles. These will do service in Town and at the sea, accessories varying with the environment. The linen suit and coat-frock are equally serviceable, and many women will want both in their wardrobe. Sleeves in both cases are short, and decorative, draped in the case of the frock, and trimmed with buttons and end-

Gay Romper Suits for Beach Wear

In all kinds of beach wear, such as the attractive new romper suits, or shorts, or the new button-on skirts and sun-back jumpers, the general trend is towards the practical. Linen is the favourite material, and that is essentially hard wearing. The beach pyjamas have given way to smart man-tailored shorts.

Cotton Frocks for the Ballroom

Schlaparelli has introduced many new and unusual materials into the dress world, and considers that cotton frocks should once more be given a chance in the London ballroom. In one cotton ensemble for a summer evening the material is blue and white checked cotton crepon, and to make the frock stand out a little round the feet, a frill of white jacquet (a starched cotton fabric) is introduced under the hem.

Brace-like straps, twisted in front, hold up the frock, which is fastened at one side with a white enamel hook. The little frill-crimped cape is of sheened white organdie. The only piece of silk in the whole outfit is in the ribbon. It is used for the knotted bow at the back. This is of bright blue velvet. Crystal mercury wings are used for the fastening in front. One Ascot suggestion in cotton is a plain straight ankle-length frock of pale blue cotton crepe voile with a delicate scroll pattern in black. This has a slightly cowl front and is tied at the back of the neck with inch-wide black cotton braid. Similar braid, but wider is used for a waistband. A poke bonnet-hat made from shiny black string with a black muslin bow for trimming, would be an appropriate companion for this frock.

The Season's New Line

The new small capes, or bolero and cape combined tend to give a distinctive and broader line to shoulders. Some of the fuller and trimly summery skirts have the draped fichu bodices and sash-waists, which take away any suggestion of a superfluity of fabric. Much attention is paid to the neck drapery. The three-quarter sleeve that opens wide towards the wrist is pleasing, and balances a slightly flared hemline. Waists are placed fairly normally. Often a slight break at the waistline is helpful, especially if a tiny bolero cape is worn, for at last the summer cape has an important place in fashion. Some little capes are attached to sashes and fasten at the back, with the ends falling on to the skirt. A somewhat difficult mode is the introduction of contrasting sleeves. With the modern desire for simplicity the quieter contrasts in colour prevail. Spotted fabrics are used sparingly—for ing in little "fins" in the trim suit. Neat turn-down collars, buttons down the front, belts and large patch pockets are features common to both models. These linens fill an important place in fashion, for there is a demand, even in the height of summer, for tailored styles, while their freshness and look of coolness is always attractive.

The Charm of Organdie

Detachable frills or even under-blouses of organdie with a dark summer gown are smart. Pleated organdie is used for the double frill arrangement on the dark frock. More elaborate is the under-blouse of embroidered and scalloped edge organdie worn with the navy blue sleeveless suit. The organdie is in a pale yellow tone with edge and embroidery in white and the effect produced is that of under-sleeves frills, and basque to an otherwise somewhat severe dark suit.

New Summer Stocking shades that suggest bare ankle effects

Despite the bare legged vogue, stockings are as important as ever. "Nude" silk hosiery is the latest. Of the sheerest silk, flesh-coloured and as fine as gauze, they are designed to meet the summer fashion of bare ankles. For everyday wear stockings of the finest mesh in silk are seen mainly in three shades. Light, medium and darker. The lightest are the nude effects ranging between pearly-pinks and sun-bronzes. When it comes to hosiery to wear with the walking suit, the vogue for blue or brown has brought with it a liking for beige-coloured stockings, with a blue suit particularly when brown shoes are worn. For the black or black and white ensemble worn by the older woman there are lovely pale greys, cool in tone, yet possessing becoming pearliness in tint. Sun-tan bronzes are worn with light frocks by the sports girl, and these shades are also useful for summer linen tweed costumes. With the more important, darker-toned frocks in silk or printed fabrics stockings in a lighter tone are chosen, in keeping with the colour of the frock and shoes. White and cream sports socks are made in silk with decorative turnover tops embroidered in gay colours. These socks are of the transparent type in fine silk or an open mesh with practical soles of flax thread or wool. Other attractive designs in socks are seen in pale pastel colours topped with a design in white.

Field Flowers

Field flowers are immensely popular as a design for printed materials. A lovely dress for a not so young wearer is of black chiffon printed with poppies and cornflowers, with an apron panel

Spick-And-Span Modern Mode

WHAT SPONGE AND WATER CAN DO

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 31.
So much white is being worn this season, white rainproofs, hats and shoes, and in fashion accessories, vanity bags, sunshades and belts, that the delicate question arises in the mind of the well-dressed woman: "How is all this white to be kept fresh and spick-and-span in appearance during a cruise or a holiday by the sea?"

Modern fashion designers and manufacturers have, however, given their productions a practical note. Many of the decorative dress accessories, in white or the fashionable pale colourings, which are now appealing to women by reason of their summery daintiness of finish, are usually washable, or, simpler process still, spongeable.

This applies to the latest leather handbags in white washable hides. There are bags with a canvas surface in white which are both washable and waterproof. These have the flat envelope fastening with plain navy buttons in chromium or gilt, and cunning little stiff plaited strap handles in colour.

Sunshades and rainproofs are made in a variety of easily cleaned fabrics. There are the silk olivins in summer tints, and the heavier crepe de Chines in white and cream and in pale colours are also treated in a process that gives a waterproof surface. The washing should be done gently with a sponge and water.

There are special creams for cleaning white leather wear, which are useful for the highly finished patent which makes many of the plaited and cord white waist belts. Chromium in belts and buckles can be polished like a mirror, with plain water and a little piece of soft chamol leather.

This is a useful tip for vanity bag fittings and fastenings, and also the large buttons, and other trifles in the way of glass bead necklaces and bracelets in which this metal is used for settings.

Beach bags and cushions in the gayest of cretonnes, both waterproof and washable, will appeal to many women, since a sponge over will bring back all the initial freshness and beauty of colourings.

There are many new curtain materials, olivins silks and cottons in a series of excellent colours, which will add in the labour-saving ideal of the holiday bungalow, and at the same time bestow distinction on the furnishing colour scheme.

Even shoes have been brought into the category of accessories that can be washed, thereby obviating the necessity of taking away too many kinds of shoe-cleaning apparatus on holiday. Washable shoes for children are particularly practical. They are to be found at the West-end stores in calf, one of the newest designs being in brown and white, and toeless.

in front edged with fine black lace. Alternatively there is a red and white chiffon dress with a black scroll pattern mounted on bright red taffeta, with a long, sleeved coat of the dress material. A brown taffeta faille coat serves as an attractive dinner or theatre dress.

The Ascot Brim

Hats for Ascot are made of black lace or chalk white straw with very wide brims and little pot crowns that are shorter than ever, in fact, they just sit on the head, but it is amazing how comfortably. Even without the elastic grip they seem to perch safely, and look very smart. The white straw brim with a black lace crown has a short black lace border dipping at a short depth all round the edge of the brim.

Mode for Tall Women

Tall women look their best in the tunic of cut-to-the-knee length. It is a charming means of introducing colour contrast into practical and pleasing street ensembles. Very new models have the long three-quarter length coat and a slim skirt in navy or black wool and silk fabric. This is worn with a long tunic blouse which can be as decorative and gay as the wearer desires. Apart from a glimpse of bold bows and cravats, and a fantastic under-cuff, the street suit reveals little of the variety of colour beneath, but this can be picked up again in a charming multi-coloured hat, with a dainty brim and possibly a crown of flower and feather of gay hue to match the tunic blouse.

The dressmakers insist on bows—bows of such dimensions that they almost conceal the neck, the shoulders, or the décolleté. This fashionable trimming can be arranged in many effective ways on frock or blouse, and lends itself in particular to the taffeta vogue of the moment. Talking of taffeta, taffeta coats, short or long, are undoubtedly playing an important part in fashion. In bright colours, or white, they also appear in the evening. The best models, however, though feminine and picturesque, are by no means exaggerated. This is fortunate, as taffeta, directly it assumes a somewhat dressy air, is apt to be ageing, as, indeed, is the case with all modes that stress more elaborate styles. The quaintly ruched or pleated taffeta cape in any colour can give new life to a printed crepe or plain chiffon frock. It can tie on one shoulder or fall down the back, finishing in a large bow to correspond. A little black taffeta jacket of the semi-fitted kind with flared peplum is worn over a floral printed, Chinese frock—one of the small garden prints in gay colours and a belted jumper style. Tartan checked taffetas are smart in two colours, such as black and yellow.

RIBBON HATS

Then there are all the ribbons which milliners are using either to create entire hats, or as trimmings. Some houses are sponsoring country hats made from the new printed cretonne ribbons, and often these rather stiff, floral-patterned ribbons are used as sashes, or inset in summer frocks of cotton fabric. Or a hat may be trimmed with a band of multi-coloured ribbon, which is repeated in an inset upon the yoke of the dress, or in the collar of the coat.

Among ribbons may be classed the many tie-silks which are enjoying so much vogue, either as collars and cuffs to replace fur upon spring coats, or else as little jackets. All are so typically "mannish" in colouring and design that one can picture a fond and economical wife making her husband a tie from the collar of her coat when she has grown tired of it!

GLASS AND WOOD

Composition bracelets in all colours are prominent, many being two to three inches wide. Some of the latest novelties are in transparent "pristal," and in the centre of them are decorative figures, or birds, exotic fishes and flowers. All, rather reminiscent of the old-fashioned coloured glass-work so frequently seen in globe paper-weights. Of these last-mentioned bangles it is worth noting that none are complete circles, all being just long enough to grip round the arm.

Immense big pecklaces of round beads are sponsored by Worth with his later spring ensembles. They look terribly heavy, but turn out to be made from the lightest woods—a pleasing change from some of the weighty jewellery women have worn lately.

This house also shows little collarettes of what appears to be cat-gut, several strands making a collar to lie flat upon a plain dress, and the ends are tied in a neat bow in front.

RINGS AND EAR-RINGS

Angular lines are apparent in much of the new jewellery. There are new signet rings made quite square, with the initials engraved or inlaid in crystal, amethyst, or some other semi-precious stone. The stones for the newest decorative rings are also cut in angular shapes and may be in triangles or squares, with broad flat facings.

Everybody in Paris is wearing the new ear-clips, or ear-jewels as they are called here. Many of these are carved out of crystal, coral, and jade, and fit like tiny shells over the lobes of the ears.

Few women are wearing long ear-rings, though Worth's hair ornament, consisting of a metal band over the head, with drops attached to either end, is very popular. I have lately seen it worn with bunches of tiny green grapes twining up from the ears and over the hair.

SIR HENRY LYTTON'S FILM CONTRACT

Sir Henry Lytton, who leaves the stage at the end of June, is to play in films under contract with the Gaumont British Company. "I believe the first is to be an historical film. In the second I hope to play a Dickens character," he told me here to-day.

"I shall probably do character roles, something after the style of George Arliss, with a bit of romance."

All Even.

"MORNING GLORY"

Coming To The King's

Something new in romantic triangles is introduced in "Morning Glory," RKO-Radio Picture which presents Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. and Adolphe Menjou as love rivals, with Katharine Hepburn as the girl, the picture will be shown at the King's Theatre on Sunday. The unusual angel enters when Fairbanks and Menjou remain the closest of friends and business associates even after their love interest, unwittingly cross.

"Morning Glory" is an intensely human interest drama centering about a girl's trials in winning recognition on the New York stage. That most interesting personality of the screen, Miss Hepburn, portrays the girl and meets with experiences which are said to parallel in some respects those she encountered in her own real life career. Fairbanks is seen as a young playwright, and Menjou portrays a Broadway producer.

Lowell Sherman directed, and others in the cast include Mary Duncan, Fredric Santley, C. Aubrey Smith, Richard Carle, Tyler Brooke and Don Alvarado.

NO NUDIST FILM

Permission To Screen Refused

The Daily Press learns that the film "Back To Nature" which was shown during the week to the Censor and other Government Officers, will not be shown to the public in Hong Kong.

Mr. T. H. King, it is understood, has written to the owners of the film, declining permission for the public exhibition of this picture.

The film is based on a book by Miss Jan Gay "On Going Naked." There are three speakers in the film, these being, an American lecturer, as well as Adolf Koch of Germany, founder and head of the German Nudist movement, and Mon. K. de Mongeot.

It will be recalled that this film was the subject of question at the Legislative Council by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga.

GEORGE ARLISS'S BEST PART YET

And The Best Film He's Been In, Too

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 26. George Arliss has the best part of his screen career in "The House of Rothschild," his new film which is to be presented at the Tivoli from to-morrow evening.

The film itself is also the best Mr. Arliss has appeared in: I saw it privately to-day.

Mr. Arliss appears first as Mayer Rothschild, who in 1780 in Frankfurt counsels his five sons on his deathbed to found banking houses in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Naples.

The scene then moves to the days of the Napoleonic Wars, when Nathan Rothschild finances the Allies against Napoleon from his London headquarters, assisted by his brothers on the Continent.

Karloff—the Villain. The theme of the picture is Nathan's principle of lending money to stop wars, and his ambition to obtain for the persecuted Jews freedom to "walk through the world with dignity."

Boris Karloff, as a German hater of Jews, is the villain, and most of the famous figures of the period, including Aubrey Smith as Wellington, come into the story.

Robert Young, with an unfortunate American accent for one of Wellington's captains, and Loretta Young, as Nathan's daughter provide a love interest.

Great Dramatic Moments. The subject is treated with dignity and power, and has many moments of great dramatic intensity.

The popular taste may find its details of international finance dry, but Mr. Arliss's fine human performance will probably discount this.

To-morrow night's performance is in aid of the Personal Service League and the Fund for German Jewish Women and Children.

GAMBLING SHIP

Final Showing To-day

"Gambling Ship," rapid fire melodrama of life aboard a floating casino, has its final showings to-day at the Alhambra Theatre.

Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack

LaRue, Glenda Farrell and Roscoe Karns play the leading roles in the film. Grant is cast as a big-time gambler from the East, who goes west for a vacation, but soon is in the thick of things again as operator of a gambling ship moored off the California coast. LaRue the menace of "The Story of Temple Drake," plays the role of a rival operator. Miss Hume is the girl in the cast.

The picture deals with the activities of gambling ships—luxuriously furnished vessels which are moored outside the three-mile limit, beyond reach of federal and local authorities, where anything can, and does go. Wealthy customers are ferried to and from them in fast speedboats, to win or lose fortunes at roulette, blackjack, dice or any one of a dozen other games.

"WE'RE NOT DRESSING"

Bing Crosby At Alhambra

RADIO CONTRACT

And A Girl
With It!

South Sea Island adventure, jungle love, and chortling comedy feature the scenes of Paramount's "We're Not Dressing," the climax of Bing Crosby's list of entertainment achievements, which opens tomorrow at the Alhambra Theatre.

Carole Lombard, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Ethel Merman, Leon Errol, and a strong supporting cast, joined hands and voices with Crosby to make his Paramount vehicle sixty minutes of unequalled action and melody.

Bing Crosby portrays a two-fisted sea-faring man with a voice and heart of gold, who works aboard the yacht of Miss Lombard.

The ship sinks, but Crosby and Miss Lombard escape, along with the heiress' guests—Miss Merman, Errol and the fortune-seeking prince, Jay Henry and Ray Miland.

They all paddle their way to a South Sea Island and there—suddenly jerked from the lap of luxury—attempt to wrest a living from nature.

How Bing puts them to work, and how Miss Lombard discovers, on the other side of the island, the camp of George Burns and Gracie Allen, big-game hunters, builds a climax which brings them all together in a tumult of thrills, laughs and songs.

Song hits for Crosby were written by the Paramount team of Mack Gordon and Harry Revel. Equally catchy numbers by Miss Merman, give the picture more its share of melody.

Director Norman Taurog has turned in a directorial job that stamps the picture as the best of his long list of successes.

"We're Not Dressing" is an equally fine actor and singer; allows Burns and Allen ample opportunity for their laugh-provoking action and chatter, and injects a swift-moving pace into the picture.

"Samarang," starring Maria Montez, George Metaxas, and Benita Hume, is a story by Benjamin Glazer.

"Melody in Spring," the Paramount musical-romance, brings to the screen for the first time, Lanny Ross, the silver-voiced tenor of radio fame, and comes on to-morrow to the Alhambra.

For his first picture, Ross, who is now under a long term contract to the Paramount studios, has a distinguished Hollywood cast supporting him, including Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, Ann Sothern, George Meeker, Wade Boteler and Helen Lynd.

Directed by Norman McLeod from an original story by Frank Leon Smith, which was brought to the screen by Benn W. Levy, "Melody in Spring" features Ross, a singer, whose great ambition is to get on the radio broadcast of Blodgett's "Dog-Biscuit Hour."

To this end he devotes himself until he meets Blodgett's daughter. Then, though he still yearns for his radio programme, he listens a bit to certain advice handed his way by the beautiful girl, with whom he has fallen madly in love.

He follows her father to Switzerland where Ruggles' hobbies get Ross into more hot water.

But after climbing several mountains, stealing curio for "the old man" and making love to the daughter—all to the tune of lifting songs and melodies, with hundreds of laughs thrown in, he gets his radio contract, and the girl, too.

equally fine actor and singer; allows Burns and Allen ample opportunity for their laugh-provoking action and chatter, and injects a swift-moving pace into the picture.

"Samarang," starring Maria Montez, George Metaxas, and Benita Hume, is a story by Benjamin Glazer.

INDIAN GUARD CHARGED

Lower Court proceedings against Sarwan Singh, an Indian guard who was charged with causing grievous bodily harm to his colleague, Thakkar Singh by shooting him through the chest on board the s.s. Fatsham on April 12, were concluded at Central Magistracy yesterday when Mr. Q.A.A. Macfadyen committed the accused to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions.

The motive for the assault, as explained by Mr. J.A. Fraser, assistant Attorney General, who prosecuted, was due to jealousy as to who should be appointed as No. 1 guard on board the Fatsham.

Medical evidence given was to the effect that the wounded man was shot through the chest and had to be detained in hospital for about three weeks. At one time he nearly succumbed.

The accused was taken to the mental hospital and according to Dr. G.H. Thomas, who examined him, he behaved in a peculiar manner, speaking freely and smiling all the time. He was subsequently kept under observation, but after a few days he was found to be of sound mind.

No Witnesses

When charged at the Central Police Station accused made the following statement: I was suffering from the effects of opium, rum and Chinese wine. I do not know whether I fired the shot or not. I noticed this when the steamer moored at the wharf where I was told by the Chinese that I had shot Thakkar Singh. A short time after I was conveyed in a motor car by an Inspector to the Government Civil Hospital. On the following day I came to know that I was detained in hospital.

At yesterday's hearing, the accused made a statement from the dock. He said that he did not wish to call any witnesses. When the boat was at Canton the complainant asked him in the presence of all the guards who should be appointed No. 1. He said that he had no objection in him (complainant) being appointed. This was agreed by all the other guards. The complainant and another guard then went to see the chief officer who agreed to this.

MEMBERS OF ILLEGAL SOCIETIES

Manslaughter Charge Withdrawn

"Deceased and the four defendants are apparently members of different illegal societies and although a number of people saw the assault they are unwilling to come forward to give evidence on account of these illegal societies, and so the case has to be abandoned," said Detective Sergeant Goodwin at Central Magistracy yesterday when he applied leave to withdraw a charge of manslaughter against Mak Pan, Lo Hin Chai, Shum Pui, all coolies of the Sanitary Department and Mak Shi, alias Tau Pel Chai, a street coolie.

Explaining the circumstances, Sergeant Goodwin said that at 6 p.m. on May 10, the deceased, Sin Tong, an unlicensed hawker, met the fourth defendant by arrangement at Bridges Street, near the Chinese Y.M.C.A. for the purpose of getting money. Meanwhile the fourth defendant had told the first accused about the meeting and the latter, obtaining the services of the second and third accused, waited at the place.

The hawker was set upon and knocked unconscious, receiving injuries on the left side of the head. Later he regained consciousness and made his way back to No. 2 Chung Wah Lane, which was an opium den. He remained there until 8 p.m. when he was taken in a chair by two chair coolies, first to the Tung Wah Hospital and then to the Government Civil Hospital. He arrived at the latter institution at 9.15 o'clock but was found to be dead. The fourth defendant was arrested the following evening and on the morning of May 12, the other accused were taken into custody.

The application was granted, and the accused were discharged.

EXTRADITION CASE

In connection with an armed robbery in the Tsui Yan district, Canton, the Canton authorities are seeking the extradition of Leung Shiu Pan who is alleged to have been concerned with the affair. The man was produced before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday when Mr. J.B. Prenties, appearing for the prisoner, asked for a week's remand.

The request was granted, and Chief Detective Inspector Shannon intimated that Mr. Fraser, the assistant Attorney General would be conducting the case for the Crown.

NO FOOD FOR TWO DAYS

When Chan Shun Ting, a native of Shanghai, was brought before him at Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of stealing a gold watch from the Mecca Silk Store, Mr. Macfadyen, the magistrate, enquired of the defendant if he were ill.

The defendant said that he had been ill for a month and had not taken food for two days. He was going to redeem the watch.

His Worship remanded the case until to-day to enable the defendant to undergo a medical examination.

Charged with trespassing in the Naval Dockyard and being in possession of an instrument for an unlawful purpose, to wit, a razor, Tsang Hong, an unemployed Chinese, was yesterday morning fined $500 in default six months hard labour on the first charge and $250 in default three months, on the second charge, the sentences to run consecutively.

Ball of $25 was estreated by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday when Lam Shuiwah, a student of 21, failed to put in an appearance to answer a charge of riding in a motorbus without his fare.

Chan Hop, a coolie, and Wan Fun, a widow, were fined $5, or in seven days' imprisonment by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, morning, for cruelty to 22 chickens and 13 geese. Inspector McLeish said that 11 geese had been put in one crate, and the other chickens and two geese in the other. In the latter case the birds were standing one upon the other.

Cheuk Kwok-yun, 34, interpreter stationed at the Upper Levels Police Station, was brought before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court yesterday charged with the unlawful possession of a cheque for $500 on May 17 last. The complainant is Mr. Wong Wing-hung, a cashier, living at No. 1 York Road. Det. Inspector J. Murphy appeared for the prosecution while Mr. Horace Lo was for the defence. Accused, who is on bail of $200, was remanded, the hearing being fixed for June 22 at 2.30 p.m.

SALE OF CHILD

"This is a very serious thing, trafficking in children," said Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday when two married women were brought before him on a charge of having taken part in a transaction, the object of which was to transfer possession of a one-month-old child for the valuable consideration.

Both women pleaded guilty, and one of them was sentenced to three months' hard labour and the other to six months.

On a charge of stealing a leather purse containing $12.42 from Li Fat, unemployed, near the Ko Shing Theatre, Kwong Chiu, a street coolie, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday.

It was stated the defendant jostled the complainant and extracted the purse. The complainant, however, felt it and caught hold of the defendant.

A FLAIR FOR WHISKY!

House-boy Sent To Gaol

An allegation that he obtained goods from local firms by forged orders made out in the name of a European lady was preferred against Fung Chat, 32, unemployed cook, before Mr. Macfadyen at Central Magistracy yesterday.

The defendant was alleged to have obtained liquors and groceries from the Wing On Company, the Sun Company, Sincere Company, and Lane Crawford by means of foreign order notes. The total value of the goods obtained was $47.

Detective-Inspector J. Murphy told the Court that defendant was formerly employed as cook by Mrs. Cardwell, of No. 520 The Peak but he was dismissed for drinking. Subsequently, he wrote out in his own name an order chit and went

HARBOUR PIPE LINE

To Be Laid In November

The provision of a second pipe line across Hong Kong Harbour, to augment the supply of water to the Island from the Shing Mun Valley Scheme, will be undertaken by the Public Works Department during the coming winter.

It may be remembered that the first pipe line was successfully laid in the winter of 1929-30. The pipe line has proved very satisfactory and has given excellent service. In fact it has been of vital importance in alleviating the water shortage experienced during the past few seasons.

In view of its vulnerability as a single pipe line however and also of the fact that further supplies of water from the Shing Mun Valley, due to the progress made with the construction of the Gorge Dam, will probably be available by the summer of next year, the first pipe line is now to be duplicated but the second pipe line will be of increased size and will have a carrying capacity of approximately double that of the existing pipe line.

Samples Wanted

The actual materials of which the new pipe is to be constructed, have not yet been finally decided upon but manufacturers of pipes have been asked to submit proposals both in England and in Hong Kong for this special work. From the experience gained during the laying and subsequent maintenance of the existing pipe line, the proposals submitted will be thoroughly examined and final designs for the new pipe will then be made.

It is anticipated that the laying of the new pipe line will be commenced in November this year and be completed by the end of March next.

round the different shops and signed in Mrs. Cardwell's name. In most of the cases he obtained whisky and brandy. He told the police that he sold the groceries to a comrade, shop in Queen Victoria Street, but this was denied, although the police believed it to be so.

On Thursday the defendant went to Lane Crawford's with an order chit purporting to bear the signature of Mrs. Cardwell. She was communicated with by telephone and it was discovered that she did not write the note or send the defendant to the shop.

When the defendant was arrested he admitted going to other shops. At the time of his arrest the defendant had in his possession a chit in the name of "R.A.C. North" addressed to Messrs. Calbeck, MacGregor. He was apparently going to get whisky on the strength of this chit.

One of the chits bore the name of Mr. Nash who resides next door to Mrs. Cardwell. Defendant apparently knew that Mr. Nash had an account with the Wing On Company.

The defendant was sentenced to 22 weeks' hard labour.

DISTILLING WINE WITHOUT LICENCE

Charged with distilling spirits without a licence in Cedar Street, with possession of distilling apparatus and with possession of fermenting materials, three Chinese males, Fung Ping aged 45, Wong King aged 25 and Wong Chung aged 38, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon. Revenue Officer J. W. M. Brown prosecuting.

Wong King, the second defendant was discharged owing to lack of evidence, while the first defendant admitted all three charges.

Wong Chung at first denied all three charges but later admitted the second and third.

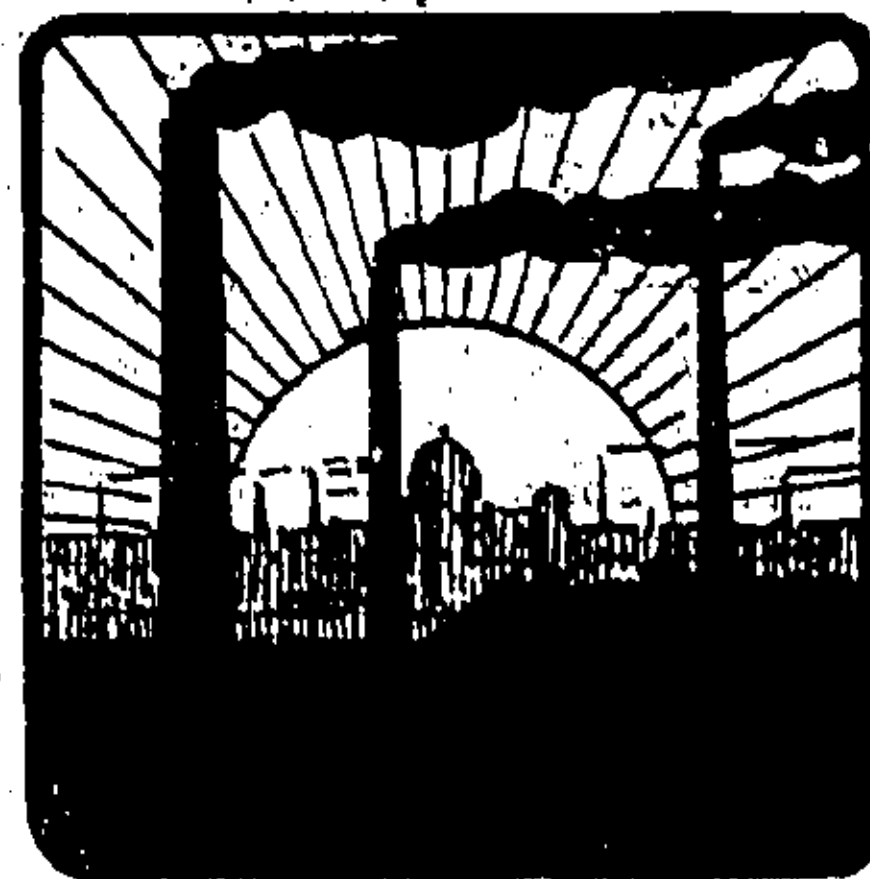

Mr. Brown said the still that had been worked by the accused was about one-sixth the size of the usual still employed by persons in the New Territories and outside the Colony. It was of very good design and was capable of producing very good spirit. When arrested the accused were in possession of about 40 gallons of spirit, the duty on which was about $50.

The first defendant admitted that the still had been working for five days.

His Worship convicted both the first and third defendant and fined the former $100, or in default one month's imprisonment on the first charge concurrent with the second

ECHOES OF 1861

22—Criminal Sessions.

February, 18. 1861.

1. Jeremiah Prophet Richie—Offering a forged cheque for $500.—The prisoner pleaded guilty, and he was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment, with hard labour. There were some extenuating circumstances, which induced His Lordship to deal so leniently with him.

2. Ali—Buccas.—The prisoner pleaded not guilty to a charge of receiving stolen goods. About the 1st February instant, Mr. Turner, an officer in the Commissariat Service, missed from his quarters a gold watch, military cloak, a pair of trousers, an elastic belt, and a purse, containing $37. These articles (money, excepted), were found in the prisoner's possession. He was found guilty, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, with hard labour.

3. Kwan Assing.—Pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing in a dwelling house to the value of $5 and upwards, on the night of the 22nd, or morning of the 23rd, January last. The prosecutor, Mr. Rawling, residing at Crosby's stores, retired to bed about 10 or 11 o'clock on the night in question, leaving his watch valued at about $150, on a small teapoy by his bedside. The following morning about 7 o'clock, he found it had been stolen. The prisoner was a coolie in the Prosecutor's employ, and was seen by the sentry on duty to have entered the house between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock on the morning of the 23rd. There was a guard of the 21st M.N.I. over the premises. The prisoner was found guilty, and sentenced to 2 years imprisonment with hard labour.

4. Lee Ahkun.—Pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing in a boat. It appears that on the 23rd January last, the shroff and a coolie in the employ of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., had been out on that day collecting money and were returning in a boat, when off Wan-chai they were attacked by a pullaway boat containing eight men, one of whom being identified as the prisoner at the bar, boarded and took away the money, amounting to about $2,000. He was armed with a sword. Information was given to the Police, who succeeded in taking him into custody. He was found guilty, and sentenced to 4 years penal servitude.

5. Cheong Ahsoy, Chun Kum-wun, and Ng Ah-yee.—The prisoners pleaded not guilty to robbery on 31st January. The Prosecutor, a servant in the employ of Mr. Borradaile, was returning from charge in which defendant was fined $250 or in default three months' imprisonment, concurrent with the third charge, in which accused was also fined $250, or in default three months' imprisonment.

Accused was also previously charged with the larceny of a water-pump for which he was sentenced to two months' imprisonment to run consecutively with the other sentences.

Wong Chung was discharged on the first count of distilling spirits without a licence, but was fined $250 or in default three months' hard labour on the second and third charges, respectively, the sentences to run concurrently.

An order was made for the confiscation of all gear.

market on the day, and when close to Spring Gardens he was set upon by seven Chinamen, one of whom seized him by the arms behind his back, another threw powder into his eyes, and another took hold of a gold chain and locket, and managed to get away with them. They took to the hills. Information was given to Mr. Borradaile and the Police authorities, and the three Prisoners were apprehended. One of them was identified. Cheong Ahsoy was found guilty and sentenced to 6 years' penal servitude; the other two were found not guilty, and accordingly discharged.

6. Chung Acheong.—Pleaded not guilty to a charge of "robbery, being armed." It appears that on the 30th October last, two Chinese police constables were on their way from Stanley to Hongkong, and when on the hills approaching and overlooking the valley of Wong-nai-chung, they were attacked by four Chinamen, one of them was armed with a bamboo, and the other three with swords; they robbed them of all they possibly could of value; also three $5 notes, and $3 in silver. On the 1st February instant, in consequence of other robberies committed, the Police sent out parties to scour the hills, and the prisoner was taken into custody on suspicion. He was identified as being one of the party engaged in the above robbery. He was found guilty, and sentenced to 5 years' penal servitude.

Our Dumb Friends

[The Editor, The "Hong Kong Daily Press"]

Sir,—May I invite all lovers of animals personally to see that their domestic pets are at this season of the year provided with an adequate supply of drinking water at all times?

In particular I would ask them to remember that birds in their natural state seek shelter during the heat of the day and that to leave caged birds exposed to the glare and heat of the sun without proper protection, will cause suffering. Such birds are prisoners, unable to protect themselves as they would in a natural state, so please give them at least this careful attention.

I would earnestly appeal to all lovers of animals in this Colony also to assist the Colony's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in its steady and constant efforts for the welfare of all animals and birds.

Thanking you for your courtesy in permitting me the use of your columns—I remain—Yours faithfully,

PROSPECTUS FOR 25,000,000 LOAN

TO BE AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC
THIS MORNING

Yesterday's Business At The Legislative Council

The prospectus as well as the application forms for the $25,000,000 Public Works Loan will be available this morning, according to an announcement made at the Legislative Council meeting yesterday. Applications will be received on June 21.

The Attorney General moved the first reading for several bills, the full particulars of which are given below.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee which followed, votes totalling $79,227 were approved. The Hon. Sir William Shenton raised certain questions with regard to some of the items for which the approval of the Committee was sought.

Bigger Tax On Concentrated Beer

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E. presided and there were present:—

His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops, Major General C. C. Borrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O.

The Hon. The Col. Secretary, Sir Thomas Southern, K.B.E., C.M.G.

The Hon. The Attorney General, Mr. R. E. Lindell.

The Hon. The Secretary for Chinese Affairs, Mr. N. L. Smith.

The Hon. The Col. Treasurer, Mr. Edwin Taylor.

The Hon. Com. G. F. Hole, R. N. (Retired) Harbour Master.

The Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, C.M.G. (Director of Medical and Sanitary Services).

The Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Director of Public Works).

The Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolf (Inspector General of Police).

The Hon. Sir William Shenton, Kt.

The Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., L.L.D.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga.

The Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso, O.B.E., L.L.D.

The Hon. Mr. T. N. Chan.

The Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell.

The Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes.

and Mr. R. A. C. North (Clerk of Councils).

The Colonial Treasurer moved the following resolution:—

Resolved pursuant to section 39 of the Liquors Ordinance, 1913, that the item:

"On beer, porter, cider, perry and stout 0.80" in Part I of the Table to the Liquor Duties Resolution of the 30th June, 1932 (published by Notification No. 417 in the Gazette of the 30th June, 1932), which Part, as substituted, it set forth in the Liquor Duties Resolution of the 20th October, 1932 (published by Notification No. 655 in the Gazette of the 21st October, 1932), be rescinded and the following items substituted:—

On cider and perry 0.80

On beer (as defined in the Ordinance but exclusive of cider and perry) not exceeding 1055 degrees original gravity, that is to say, the specific gravity of the wort thereof before fermentation 0.60

On all other beer (as defined in the Ordinance but exclusive of cider and perry) imported in a concentrated form, or as ale basis, or malt and hops concentrate 0.60 with the addition of one cent per gallon for every degree by which the original gravity exceeds 1045 degrees.

In doing so, he said:—"This resolution is necessary on account of the proposed importation of what is called heavy gravity beer, that is beer in a concentrated form. Hitherto the duty on all imported beers has been at the rate of 60 cents per gallon no regard being made to the original gravity as no beer was imported above 1055deg., generally nearer 1045deg. It is evident, therefore, that if heavy ale of 1105deg. gravity is imported under the present scale of duties and watered down, the revenue will suffer. This resolution adds beers imported in a concentrated form or as ale basis or malt and hops concentrate to the scale of duties. The new duty will be levied at the rate of 60 cents per gallon for every degree by which the original gravity exceeds 1045.

The Col. Secretary seconded and the motion was carried.

PENSIONS ORDINANCE

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the Pensions Ordinance, 1932." He said: The purpose of this Bill is to make certain clarifying amendments to the Pension Ordinance 1932.

In Section 2 (b) (1) of that Ordinance the definition of "pensionable office" was such that it might have been deemed to make pensionable the holder of an office declared pensionable who was not himself a member of the pensionable establishment.

The further proviso added to sub-section, gets rid of this anomaly.

The amendment proposed by clause 4 empowers the Governor-in-Council to make regulations for the granting of pensions, gratuities, etc., to the dependants of persons who have died in the public service of the Colony, as well as to persons who have retired from the Service.

The other two minor amendments are purely formal.

The Colonial Secretary seconded the Bill was read a first time.

MARRIAGE ORDINANCE

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the Marriage Ordinance, 1875." He said: The Marriage Ordinance, 1875, nowhere lays down any minimum age of marriage which is thus the same as it was in England up to 1929—14 for male and 12 for female. The Age of Marriage Act of 1929 avoided any marriage either party to which is under 16, and the present Bill (Clause 4) amends Section 26 (2) of the Ordinance to secure the same effect.

Further the new Section 12 (a) enacted by Clause 2 forbids the issue of a marriage licence or certificate where either party is under 16, and the effect of the amendment of Section 13 by Clause 3 is to nullify the consent of a parent, etc., to the marriage of a child who is under 16.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

PROTECTION OF WOMEN AND GIRLS.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the law relating to the protection of Women, and Girls." He said: The effect of this Bill, introduced at the direction of the Secretary of State is as follows:—

(1) By Clauses 2 and 3 it raises the age of a girl below which, even though she consents, actual carnal knowledge of her is a felony, and attempted carnal knowledge a misdemeanour, and at and above which either offence is a misdemeanour, from 12 to 13.

Further the new Section 5 (enacted by Clause 2) omits the proviso that appeared in old Section 5 making reasonable belief that she was 16 or more sufficient defence to a charge of actual or attempted carnal knowledge of a girl under 16, and extends the time with which a prosecution for this offence must be instituted to twelve months (instead of three) from the date of the offence.

(2) By Clause 4 it raises from 13 to 16 the age at which the consent of the girl is a defence on a charge of indecent assault on her.

(3) By Clause 5 it raises the age of a girl below which, allowing her defilement is a felony, and

The Col. Secretary seconded and the motion was carried.

DIRECTOR'S REMARKS AT COMPANY MEETING

Hong Kong Brewers And Distillers' Report For The Year

The second annual general meeting of the Hong Kong Brewers and Distillers, Limited was held at the Registered Offices of the Company, Rutton Building, yesterday, when Mr. Stanley H. Dodwell presided and was supported by Hon. Sir William Shenton, Mr. Samuel So Wong, Mr. W. G. Robertson, Mr. Wong Sik-chung (Directors), Mr. J. H. Ruttonjee (Managing Director) and Mrs. E. M. Barrett (Secretary).

The following shareholders were also present: Mr. C. Champkin, Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones representing Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, solicitors for the Company, Mr. W. C. Clark, Mr. W. C. Felslow, Mr. V. Treskin and Mr. W. Forsyth, representing Messrs. Linstead and Davis.

Reduction Of Overdraft Desirable

The Chairman, Mr. Stanley H. Dodwell, in his speech said:—

Gentlemen.—Before dealing with the report of your Directors I should like to express the Board's regret that Mr. J. P. Warren had to resign from the position of Chairman of the Board last month on his sudden departure for England for reasons of ill-health. We all hope for his speedy recovery and early return to Hongkong.

Our total profits for the eight months from the opening of the Brewery in May to the 31st December, 1933, after charging for cost of all raw materials, Brewing and Administration, expenses and interest on Overdraft, amounted to $17,948.55.

After making provision for depreciation on Fixed Assets, of $49,064.58.

And writing off expenditure incurred during the period January to April, before the opening of the Brewery, and expenses in connection with the opening, amounting to $26,743.96, making a total of $75,808.54.

There remains a debit balance of $57,859.99. To which is to be added expenditure to 31st December, 1933, $46,867.47.

Leaving a debit balance as at 31st December, 1933, to be carried forward to next account, of $104,727.46.

The Directors' Report has explained that, though brewing operations commenced at the beginning of May, 1933, our first brews were maturing for four months, and sales did not begin until the end of August. The accounts cover, therefore, only four months' actual trading; yet, they, of necessity, include $29,443.44 for salaries, wages and allowances and other overhead expenditure for the four months May to August, and a charge of $22,317.51 for depreciation for the same four months, making, in the Brewing and Trading Account for the eight months, a total charge under these heads of $48,760.95 for the four months when no sales were being made. In the Profit and Loss Account for the whole year we have a further charge for salaries, rent, and other expenditure amounting to $26,743.96 incurred during the four months January to April, before the opening of the Brewery, making in all a charge under these heads of $75,504.91 on account of the 8 months before our beer was put on the market.

The item of $49,064.58 for depreciation appears a particularly heavy charge. It should be explained that, though our beer was on sale for only the last four months of the year, depreciation charges have been applied over a period of eight months since the commencement of brewing operations, at the following rates: Building 2½%, Plant and Machinery and Fixtures 10%, Motor Transport 20%.

If you refer to the Balance Sheet you will note that the Company's Fixed Assets are set out in detail at cost, while provision for depreciation has been stated in the form of the Reserve.

Overdraft

Our overdraft with our Bankers stood at $733,857.34 at the end of the year, an increase of $453,843.23 on the overdraft at the end of 1932. Of this sum $361,319.38 was expended on buildings, plant, and machinery, furniture and equipment, and motor transport. An increase of this amount is shown in the value of our fixed assets. The existence of this overdraft is chiefly due to the fact that the heavy fall in exchange at the time our contract for machinery and plant was signed very considerably increased our capital expenditure, the contract having been made at exchange -111½d.

Negotiations were carried on during the year with the Dairy Farm Company for the sale of our ice, and we are pleased to report that satisfactory terms have now been agreed on, which provide for the purchase of our whole output by the Dairy Farm Company.

Economies are being effected this year in several directions. As the Brewery has now been in operation for 12 months we have been able to ascertain where expenditure can be curtailed, and every effort is being made to effect reduction without however impairing working efficiency or the high quality of our product.

Production Cost

With a view to the reduction of the production costs of our beer by a wider distribution of our overhead expenditure, we have at present under consideration plans for the utilization of the Brewery waste products, such as yeast and spent grain. The most important factor, however, in bringing about a really substantial reduction in the cost of producing our beer would be the establishment of the Distillery. This we hope to put in hand as soon as circumstances permit.

On an average, somewhat over 65 per cent. of our bottles are being returned. Considerably less than this percentage of the bottles sent out during the four months September to December, 1933, were returned before the end of the year, and in our accounts for the current year there should, therefore, be a large reduction in our expenditure on bottles. It was not anticipated that we should have as much as 65 per cent. of our bottles returned, and when our present orders for bottles are completed in 1935, it should not be necessary to place further orders for a considerable time if the same percentage of returned bottles is maintained. This will mean a substantial reduction in the burden of our forward purchase of bottles over a long period.

Although your Directors have had a great deal of work to do in the initial stages of the Brewery they have agreed to forego two-thirds of their fees in view of the act that actual trading was only carried out during the last four months of the year under review. This explains the charge of $2,000 under this head.

The Sales

Our sales of beer—both light and dark—have exceeded all our expectations, with the result that we have as yet been unable to take any steps to build up an export business. Our Chief Brewer, Mr. Woltch, insists that the maturing period for our beer must not be less than four months—and our ultimate aim is five months. For this reason, and also that of the shortage of storage capacity for maturing, it is only with difficulty that we have been able to meet local demands; indeed at times we have had on hand large orders which we were unable to supply in full immediately. We are, however, installing an additional 14 aluminium maturing and fermenting tanks of a capacity of 2,200 gallons each. They will be available this month, and we hope to be able to make a beginning with our export business this year. With favourable exchange rates and the quality of our beer to help us, we believe that we shall be in a position to compete successfully with other beers in some of the neighbouring markets.

Duty On Beer.

A few particulars of the duty charged on imported beer in protection of the home brewed article in these neighbouring countries will give you some idea of the difficulties we shall be up against. In China the duty, including surtax, amounts to 88 per cent. ad valorem—or say $14 a case, or $2.30 a gallon, on beer of Pilsen type, as against an excise duty of only $3.00 per case or 50 cents a gallon on beer brewed in China. In Indo-China there are three rates of duty—56 francs per 100 litres, or 22 gallons, for beer from certain European countries, 112 francs for Japanese beer, and 224 francs for beer imported from other countries including Hong Kong. Against this duty of 224 francs per 22 gallons or, say, 10 francs (Hong Kong $1.66) per gallon, beer brewed in Indo-China pays an excise duty of only 7 francs per 22 gallons plus 2 per cent. ad valorem.—In all approximately Francs 7.80 or Hong Kong $1.30 per 22 gallons, or 6 Hong Kong cents per gallon. In Japan the duty on imported beer is 100 per cent. ad valorem. This amounts to about Yen 3.33 per gallon on an average, as against an excise duty of only 63 sen per gallon Japanese beer. In Ceylon the import duty is Rupees 1.05 per gallon, while the duty on locally brewed beer is only 5 cents per gallon. In Hong Kong our beer pays the same duty as imported beers except for a small difference amounting to about 1 cent per pint bottle which disappears directly exchange reaches 1d. These figures give you an idea of the preference and encouragement given to the Brewer in neighbouring countries. In Hong Kong the only preference accorded to our enterprise has been shown by the discerning beer-drinkers of the Colony on the merits of our product. That is a very valuable asset which it is our determination to continue to earn. Whether we are ever accorded fiscal preference, alongside all other British brewed beers, depends on the future policy of the Colony. We are a free port according to the most part, equality of opportunity to all nations. Our ideal position and our harbour facilities have in the past fully justified our policy of remaining a free port, but now that our free port is surrounded by the barrier reefs of high tariffs and our great entrepot trade is dwindling, it is at least questionable whether it is a policy we should rigidly adhere to.

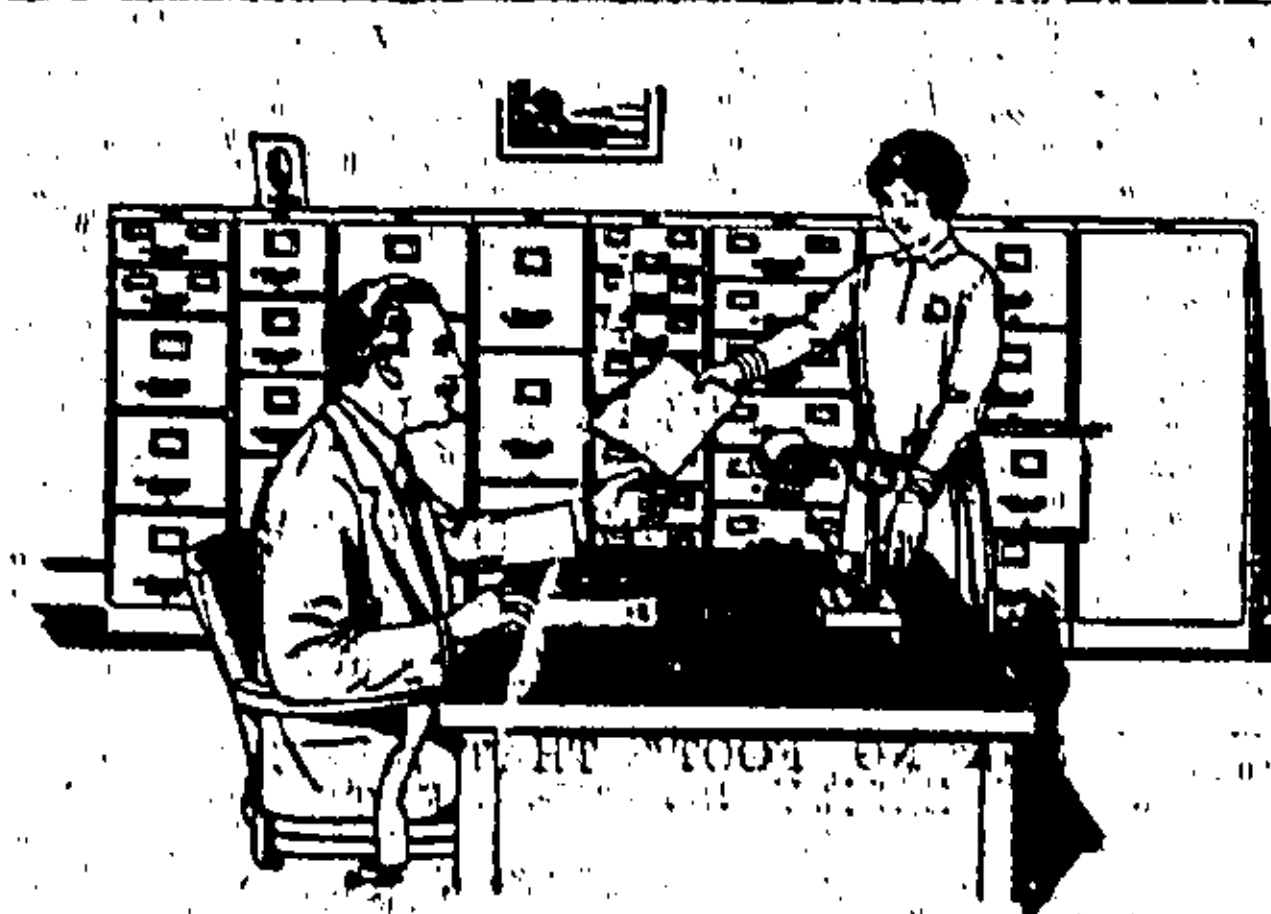

We have excellent facilities for industrial enterprise but the difficulties of developing in this direction are great. The greatest of them is the refusal on the part of many of the Dominions to treat us as part of the British Empire. They are ready enough to do so when they want us to buy their goods, but not so ready when it comes to buying the products of our factories. Indeed many of them place us on the same fiscal footing as Japan. This matter is without doubt receiving the consideration of the Commercial Community. There may be good reasons why we must accept the position, one sided as it seems, and remain a free port but in my opinion we should not turn down the possibilities of reciprocity, as part of the Empire, without investigating what can be done in that direction and weighing up most carefully its advantages and disadvantages.

In view of the increase in the capacity of our maturing tanks, it has been necessary to extend in other directions. A new bottle washing room has been completed and new machinery installed. The erection of a new concrete storage shed is in hand. We have also now erected our own workshop capable of handling all minor repairs, many of which have hitherto had to be done at outside workshops. The height of our dam has just been very considerably increased, which further ensures a full supply of water during all seasons.

In Conclusion.

Your Directors would like to place on record their appreciation of the assistance at all times received from Mr. J. D. Lloyd, Superintendent of Imports and Exports, and his staff, and the ready and helpful consideration which they have at all times

HONG KONG'S SLUMS

Visitors to Hong Kong, particularly those who only "do" Repulse Bay and the other pleasure places, may marvel at the many signs of prosperity and conclude that the question of trade depression has been grossly exaggerated. They cannot be blamed if, when they leave Hong Kong, they take away with them this mistaken idea, for even the average man in the Colony does not realise the conditions under which some people, who owing to poverty, are forced to live in the slum districts. Many of our officials, though they know of the existence of those quarters, have failed to translate them into the realities of human life, and as they are a continual reminder of how lax the authorities are on matters demanding urgent attention, it is to be hoped that some member of the Legislative Council will take up the matter with a view to making life less miserable for the unfortunate people who have to live in districts where, on account of the lack of proper lighting, cleanliness and ventilation, disease abounds.

It would be a sorry excuse if the authorities advanced the theory that lack of funds prohibit any "clearing" being made at the present time. The regions were already stricken before the wave of the trade depression spread over the world. It is a pitiful sight to see a flat in a Chinese tenement house being shared by ten families of three persons each. It is a well-known fact that such flats only boast about three windows—one at the back and two in the front and when the flat is divided and sub-divided into cubicles, one can easily imagine what conditions in it must be like. There is the cooking to be done and as the poor people can only afford the very inferior fuel, the result is that the place is full of smoke. It is bad enough for adults to have to put up with these conditions, but when it is realised that babies are brought up in the same surroundings, then it is not difficult to see why tuberculosis and other diseases are so prevalent in Hong Kong. Then there is the question of the water supply. So big is the demand for water in such a flat that it is not possible for every member of the household to get the necessary requirements and the regulations governing the supply of water require amending.

The cause of this abnormal condition is lack of interest on the part of the powers-that-be insofar as the poor classes are concerned. Anything that will result in the Colony being called a modern place—like motor roads to the Peak and Lidos at Repulse Bay, come in for more than their fair share of attention, but breathe one word about the slum quarters and more open spaces for the children of the poor classes, and you are immediately "taboo."

The population of these districts take their hardship in good grace though it must be said that were they more particular in regard to cleanliness, a little improvement might result. But the fact remains that the things are not satisfactory and as the good name of Hong Kong depends largely in a general cleanliness of the slums, it is imperative that something should be done, and the sooner the better.

U.K. STERLING SYSTEM

Most Stable In
The World

London, June 13.
Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, speaking at the annual luncheon of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, whose conference opened in London to-day, said that so far as the monetary policy was concerned, in the United Kingdom they enjoyed a sterling system that was the most stable in the world.

The old gold standards to which they had been wedged were no longer part and parcel of Britain's economy. The sterling basis had proved steadier than they had anticipated—steadier even than gold.

Referring to the Ottawa agreements, he asserted the view that their results were disappointing. If circumstances had been more favourable they might have done better, but he felt confident that as time went on and relations with the Dominions were drawn closer, the tendency of the Ottawa agreements would be to add to the volume of Imperial trade.—British Wireless.

FORGED NOTES

Hongkong Bank $500 Issue Copied

The five hundred dollars bank notes of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation have now received the attention of forgers, and it would appear that a very clever forgery has been made, since quite a number have been successfully uttered.

It is difficult to detect the forged notes, since they are so similar to the genuine ones. The only difference is in the water mark, there being an extra white ring in the forged specimen.

Other local banks have been warned. It is believed that the forged notes emanate from a clever gang at Macao.

It will be recalled that recently it was discovered that forged $50 notes of the Hongkong Bank were being circulated.

SIR FREDERICK MAZE FETED

Entertainments In London

London, June 14.
Sir Frederic Maze, Inspector-General of the Chinese Maritime Customs, who is at present on furlough, was entertained to tea to-day at the Commons by the Chinese Committee.

Yesterday he was a guest at a luncheon given by the Federation of the Chambers of Commerce when Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, was the chief speaker.

To-morrow he will be entertained at luncheon by the Committee of the Chinese Association. Another engagement for July 7 has been arranged when he, together with Lady Maze, will be guests at a dinner to be given by the Royal Central Asian Society.—Reuter.

NEW RUSSIAN BISHOP

Appointed To Shanghai

Belgrade, June 14.
The Synod of the Russian Church in exile and with headquarters in Yugoslavia has appointed Jovan Maksimovitch, Professor of Theology, Beloit, Orthodox Bishop of Shanghai, succeeding the present Archbishop in Peking.

Maksimovitch was formerly a Russian monk and fled to Yugoslavia after the revolution. He is a descendant of the Metropolitan of Tobolsk, who two centuries ago sent the first Russian Church mission to China.

The consecration was performed in the Russian Church at Belgrade where the buried colours of many Tsarist regiments are preserved.—Reuter.

PROTECTIVE GUARDS

To Maintain Peace and Order

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 14.
About 120,000 protective guards scattered in the different counties are to be placed under the direct command of the First Group Army for the maintenance of peace and order in Kwangtung, a high military official told this correspondent to-day.

About $700,000 are required for the maintenance of this big army, and funds can be easily secured, as certain farm tax is collected for the upkeep of these guards, who were formerly under the command of the county or hsten government. The farm tax levied in the county is sufficient to pay all expenses, for in the past over 100 miscellaneous taxes were collected for the protective guards in name but in fact for the corrupt gentry and "local bullies." Such exorbitant taxes are to be abolished.

Instead of being used as tools of the corrupt gentry and local bullies, the protective guards will take orders direct from the high military command here. General Chen Tsai Tong, head of the 1st Group Army, will be appointed commandant of this protective guards. An executive officer or second in command will be in actual charge of the training and garrison duties of this unit.

In the past, the rich county spends more to have the largest number of guards, although a smaller number would be sufficient. Under the new plan the stationing of the guards in each county depends on its requirement. Three years are stipulated for the training of these detachments who are charged only to suppress bandits and river pirates. Their training includes political instruction and reconstruction work.

After these guards are properly trained and reorganized, the regular soldiers will be sent to the frontiers for national defence or may be sent away entirely from the province for other military duties. Maintenance of peace and order in Kwangtung will then be in the hands of the protective guards.

MOLESTATION OF BRITISH SHIPPING

London, June 13.
Questioned as to what reply had been received from the Norwegian Government to the representations regarding the molestation of British shipping off the coast of Norway, the Lord Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden, in the House of Commons, said that the Norwegian Government, in an interim reply, stated that an explanation had been requested from competent authorities, and that, should it prove that the British trawlers had been subjected to unwarrantable interference, the Norwegian Government were fully prepared to make good the wrong.—British Wireless.

BRITISH TRADE FIGURES

London, June 13.
The preliminary Board of Trade returns of British Overseas Trade, for May, show imports totalling £81,727,000, as against £56,330,000 in April, and £57,278,000 in May, 1933.

Exports were £32,750,000 as against £30,100,000 in April, and £30,765,000 in May 1933.

Re-exports were £4,787,000, as against £5,019,000 and £3,820,000. For the five months from January to May 1934, imports were £301,249,000, as against £287,063,000 in the corresponding period of 1933. Exports for the five months totalled £157,608,000, as against £148,877,000, and re-exports £24,708,000, against £19,941,000.—British Wireless.

DESTROYERS IN COLLISION

London, June 13.
Two British destroyers, H.M.S. "Codrington" and H.M.S. "Acacia," were in collision off Malta during exercises last night. There were no casualties to the personnel. The "Codrington" was damaged forward and the "Acacia" suffered some damage on the starboard side where davits had been torn away and boats damaged.—British Wireless.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(By "NO QUARTER")

The Hon. Mrs. Marina, prominent social reformer, and Chairman of the Hong Kong vigilance committee has not been idle in her campaign to CLEAN UP HONG KONG. First of her resolutions was that no harm should come to the moral fibre of the colony through the cinema or theatre.

Having heard of the arrival of the Marcus Show, Mrs. Marina was early on the quay to greet them. She mingled with the girls, smiling kindly and distributing tracts. An incident which caused much good natured laughter occurred when she presented one of the girls with a pamphlet with the startling title "The Wages Of Sin Is Death." The girl wittily remarked:

"Are you nuts?"
"Have you nuts?" corrected Mrs. Marina quietly and passed on. Mr. Marcus is alleged to have remarked later, "That woman's so low she could walk under a snake with a high hat on."

IMPORTANT VISIT

One of the most prominent business men in Western America passed through the colony on Monday last. He is Mr. Hans B. Fluschnman, the toilet fixture king, and inventor of the "Bathroom Beautiful." Asked for his views on the trade depression, Mr. Fluschnman said, "We must all pull together."

Mr. Fluschnman was born of humble yet dishonest parents in the little town of Oshkosh Pa. He was given practically no education, and at the age of five he sickened of his country surroundings and went to New York. There he eked out a precarious existence manufacturing wooden legs for armadillos who fell off the Woolworth Building between the hours of 8 and 10 on alternate Tuesdays.

He found this work too limited and struck out on his own as a plumber's mate. "If you want to get rich," said Mr. Fluschnman, "you must make money."

TERRORISM IN AUSTRIA

German Frontier Closed

Vienna, June 14.
In an endeavour to check the epidemic of terrorist outrages, the Director of Security, in the Province of Vorarlberg, has ordered a complete closing of the German frontier, prohibiting even the minor traffic of frontier peasants. The order declares that the frontier will remain closed until the outrages cease, and alleges that Germans are crossing the frontier nightly into Vorarlberg in order to commit outrages.

The Austrian Government has submitted the Italian Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Signor Suvich, all the material collected which could prove that Germany is guilty of inspiring the outbreaks.

The Government, however, expects a slackening of the tension and therefore has not taken the aggressive steps demanded by the Heimwehr.—Reuter.

ALLEGATION DENIED

Berlin, June 13.
In connection with the recent bombing outrages in Austria, an assertion was made by the Austrian Press that some cases containing high explosives and bearing the inscription "Testing department Reichswehr Ministry Berlin Charlottenburg" had been discovered near Telfs in Tyrol. The report has been branded as a bare-faced falsification in authorized German quarters where it was pointed out on Wednesday there does not exist any testing or similarly named division of Reichswehr Ministry.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CHIANG KAI SHEK DUE AT NANKING

Nanking, June 14.
It is understood that Chiang Kai Shek left Kuixiang aboard a Chinese gunboat this morning and will be arriving here at midnight. Another report states that Chiang Kai Shek is planning to land at Wuhu where he will proceed to Nanking by motor. If this is correct he may be expected to arrive here round about 8 p.m. The above reports, however, still lack official confirmation.—Reuter.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

One case of small-pox, one of tuberculosis and two of enteric fever were reported for the 24 hours ended on June 13.

Commodore Elliott has taken up residence at the Commodore's Bungalow, 102, the Peak and requests that all private letters be sent to that address.

FINAL CHAPTER IN THE KURAMOTO CASE

Japan Expresses Thanks To China

Nanking, June 14.
Mr. Suma called on Mr. Wang Ching Wei at 4 o'clock this afternoon stating that under instructions from the Tokyo Foreign Office and Mr. Ariyoshi he wished to express the thankfulness of the Japanese authorities for the efforts in the discovery of Mr. Kuramoto by the Chinese authorities, thus marking probably the final chapter in the Kuramoto case.—Reuter.

TOKYO STATEMENT

Tokyo, June 14.
A spokesman of the Foreign Office, expressing relief at Mr. Kuramoto's safety, declared that the manner in which the case was dealt with will be decided after investigation which will be made as soon as Mr. Kuramoto has regained his health and mental normality.—Reuter.

GREAT RELIEF IN LONDON

London, June 14.
Great relief is felt by everyone here interested in the Far East that Mr. Kuramoto has been found, thus reducing a farce which threatened to develop into a tragedy.

The Chinese hope that Nanking has obtained an authoritative statement from Mr. Kuramoto before he was restored to the Japanese authorities. There is some feeling here that Japan should express regret to China in view of the severity of her attitude.—Reuter.

INTERVIEWS FORBIDDEN

Nanking, Earlier.
Up till now there is no indication of Japan's official attitude following Mr. Kuramoto's discovery. No statement was made when Mr. Kuramoto was officially handed over yesterday afternoon, and this morning, no Japanese representative called on the Chinese authorities.

It is learned that after Mr. Kuramoto returned home yesterday afternoon, the Japanese Consulate instructed a close watch to be kept for fear that Mr. Kuramoto should commit suicide. Press interviews have been forbidden.—Reuter.

CHINESE OPINION

Shanghai, June 14.
Chinese despatches from Nanking attribute Mr. Kuramoto's strange interlude to the disappointment that he has remained a Vice-Consul for many years without promotion. They assert that he was also mortified when he was not included in the list of guests at the dedication of the new Chinese Foreign Office building.

Meanwhile, one of Shanghai's leading Japanese doctors has arrived at Nanking to attend Mr. Kuramoto, who will not be questioned until he recovers from the strain of his experience.—Reuter.

BRITISH COURT IN SHANGHAI

Information at Commons

London, June 14.
The Government already have very ample information regarding the required reforms in the Shanghai District Court, and Sir Alexander Cadogan does not neglect the opportunity of adding thereto.

Captain Anthony Eden made the above statement in answer to Mr. W. Nunn at question time in the House of Commons to-day.

Captain Eden added that Sir John Simon had not proposed the issue of any fresh instructions at present in the matter.—Reuter.

NEW SHANGHAI LOAN

Shanghai, June 14.
The Chinese Press credits the Municipal Government of Greater Shanghai with the decision to float a new loan of $3,500,000 for the construction of a stadium, museum, libraries, hospitals, slaughter houses and road repairs.—Reuter.

HISTORIC MEETING AT VENICE

THE NAZIS' CHIEF

ADOLF HITLER

LECTURE BY GOEBBELS

Readiness To Conciliate

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Warsaw, June 13.
Paraphrasing Mussolini's dictum by stressing that National Socialism, like Fascism, is unsuited for export, the German Propaganda Minister, Goebbels, in a lecture on "National Socialism in German as a factor for European peace", delivered on Wednesday afternoon before an audience of "society of Polish intellectuals", emphasised that German National Socialism solely concerned the task of internal reconstruction. In foreign political sphere, said Goebbels, we simply endeavour, like every other nation, to establish contact, to defend our vital interests but we do not pursue specifically the National-Socialist foreign policy.

The Minister then turned to the purpose and essence of the National Socialist revolution pointing out that, no German Government had ever been in such complete harmony with the broad masses of people as the National-Socialist Government which in the election of November 12, 1933 obtained 92 per cent. of the majority.

Goebbels then dealt with the work of reconstruction carried out in Germany during the last seven months, emphasising the solid position of the German State as an honest broker between weak and strong divisions of economic life. "Anarchistic and chaotic forces, Marxism and Communism work in just the opposite direction."

If the exponents of these anti-social movements are excluded from society and put in concentrated camps and educated again into useful members of human society, it was an act of self defence, which in consideration with the greatness of the danger then threatening, was carried out with the most humane means.

The new understanding with Poland, continued the Minister, is a testimony of Adolf Hitler's earnestness to conciliate peoples, and to bridge the differences which have driven Europe to the edge of collapse. Our exit from the League of Nations and forsaking the disarmament conference is not in contradiction with this readiness. An honour-loving nation can negotiate and work only in granting equality status. From the depths of powerful conviction, Germany is ready to co-operate in the noble work of peace. To all former enemies whom we can only wish may at least become our friends—Germany holds out the right hand of fellowship.

When Dr. Goebbels arrived here on Wednesday afternoon he was met by the German Minister to Warsaw, the Polish Home Minister Piaricki, and the Governor of Warsaw.

On Thursday the German Propaganda Minister will be entertained to a breakfast by the Foreign Minister, Beck and granted an audience with the Polish Dictator, Pilsudski in the late afternoon.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Venice, June 14.

Escorted by Italian aeroplanes, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, accompanied by Baron von Neurath, Germany's Foreign Minister, and high Nazi officials, arrived at 10.05 a.m. to-day at the airport here from Munich for the historic meeting with Premier Benito Mussolini. The German Delegation was welcomed by Signor Mussolini, dressed in Fascist uniform. The Italian Delegation was introduced by Il Duce to Herr Hitler, who afterwards inspected a Guard of Honour composed of sailors dressed in black and yellow uniforms.

The party then proceeded to the motor-boat Venice and, as they passed the lagoons, the warships lining the route fired salutes.

The Italian Press only published the bare news of the visit in the morning and refrained from commenting on the objects of the visit, apart from assuring Herr Hitler of a cordial welcome.

GREETINGS

When Herr Hitler's plane taxied to the spot where Signor Mussolini stood, surrounded by Black Shirts, Il Duce stepped forward to greet him, while the band played Deutschland Uber Alles.

Herr Hitler's arrival at the Grand Hotel was greeted by enthusiastic cries of "Viva! Viva!" from the assembled crowds.

At noon Herr Hitler attended a luncheon given by Signor Mussolini at the Stra Villa. Conversations between the two statesmen will follow.

In the evening Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini will be present at a concert at the courtyard of Doges Palace, which will be attended by four hundred guests. A feature of the festivities will be an illuminated procession of two hundred gondolas.—Reuter.

A LONG CHERISHED WISH

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, June 13.
The long rumoured discussions between Hitler and Mussolini were officially affirmed in Berlin on Wednesday night.

A laconic communique announces that for a long time it had been the wish of the Italian leader and the German Chancellor to make each other's acquaintance and discuss the general political situation of both States.

They will meet in Venice on Thursday.

Venice, June 13.
The diplomatic world has already begun to converge here as a prelude to the Hitler-Mussolini meeting on Thursday. The major portion of the German delegation was housed on Wednesday in the Grand Hotel, while the Italian ambassador to Berlin, Cerruti, has also arrived. The Italian delegation will arrive in the course of the night.—Transocean Kuo Min.

FRANCE'S WAR DEBT

Note to America

Paris, June 14.
In a note of two hundred words, France tells the United States that as no new fact has intervened she is not in a position to pay the June instalment of U.S.$141,000,000. France does not contest the validity of the debt and remains willing to discuss a settlement which takes into account the present circumstances.—Reuter.

CHEAPNESS OF MONEY

Eagerness to Take Advantage

London, June 14.
The efforts of big companies to avail themselves of the present extraordinary cheapness of money were witnessed by the decision of Anglo-Persian to repay $4,850,000 worth of debentures and of British Aluminium to convert, the February 1, 1935 $2,250,000 worth of debentures of North British Aluminium and the January 1, 1936 of their own debentures worth $2,500,000.

Such repayments, while reducing the companies' fixed interest charges, will nevertheless tend to swell the superabundance of money supplies in London.

Brokers are finding increased difficulty in advising clients of profitable investments in view of the lowness of current yields.

This partly explains the present popularity of gold mining shares where the yield is based on the present price as compared with last year's dividends ranges of 331 per cent. averaging about six per cent.

Gold shares are now regarded as safe investment with the possibility of increased earnings on heavy capital appreciation in the event of the metal rising to new records.

Speculators have been buying gold heavily with a view to obviating currency risks.—Reuter.

SHARP DROP IN GERMAN BONDS

In Consequence of Moratorium

London, June 14.
The declaration of the German moratorium, although not causing much surprise on the Stock Exchange, had a dampening effect on business. All German bonds marked down sharply, the Dawes and Young Loans falling to 60 and 40 compared with 82½ and 43 respectively last night. Quotations are now nominal.

A prominent banker in an interview with Reuter stated that the "removal of these heavy charges will undoubtedly diminish the pressure of the mark which therefore should improve." Nevertheless the mark is now quoted at 13.33 which is twelve points decline as compared with last night.

It is very interesting to speculate what action will be taken by the British, French and other Governments concerned to protect and safeguard the interests of their nationals. It is suggested that the authorities may consider the possibilities of introducing an exchange clearing system.—Reuter.

HONG KONG PROPOSAL TO LINK RAILWAYS

Objections By Chinese On Commercial Grounds

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 14.
Officials and merchants here are not in favour of joining the Canton-Hankow Railway with the Canton-Kowloon Railway at this centre as proposed by Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Hong Kong.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce has sounded all the gulls on this point and has received unfavourable replies from them. These commercial bodies hold the view that in such through service Canton has nothing to gain but everything to lose.

It through traffic can go between Locheang and Kowloon and between Hankow and Kowloon in 1938, merchants here believe that Canton will lose all the wharfage and warehouse business. In that event, goods would not stop here but would proceed direct to Hong Kong.

"Hong Kong is already the entrepot of South China," a leading merchant here pointed out to-day. "Should there be a connection between the two lines, Canton will no longer be a centre of trade in Kwangtung. Hong Kong will then feed and receive all the goods imported into and exported from South China."

Mr. Lee Shin Kan, managing director of the Canton-Hankow Railway (South Section) denied any possibility of joining his line with the Canton-Kowloon Railway. Mr. Lee said that the efforts of his administration are concentrated on the early completion of the railway from Canton to Hankow.

Similar views are expressed by Mr. Hsiao Fu Chen, member of the South-west Political Council. He said Canton would become a dead city if goods consigned to various parts of the province cannot be concentrated first at this point.

APPOINTMENT IN SWATOW

For Col. Chang Ching Hui

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 14.
Colonel Chang Ching Hui, Ph.D., professor at the Yen Tan Military Academy, has been appointed adviser to the Eastern Kwangtung Pacification Office at Swatow, of which General Li Yang King, commander of the 3rd army, is the concurrent Pacification Commissioner.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Dr. Chang will be in charge of foreign and diplomatic affairs in Swatow in view of the growing importance of that port. He will retain his connection with the Military Academy, dividing his time between Canton and Swatow.

Colonel Chang is recently back in Canton from Swatow after the completion of an important mission there on behalf of General Chen Tsal Tong, Commander-in-Chief of the First Group Army.

The conditions in Swatow and Eastern Kwangtung are carefully watched by the military authorities owing to their maritime importance. Lieut-General Chang Jul Kwei, commander of second independent division at Swatow, is back here to submit a report on the conditions there.

THE JUMP IN SILVER

Financiers are not impressed by the jump in silver, mainly due to the absence of sellers who, despite the permissive character of the American Silver Bill, are holding off hoping that America will resume purchases in London.

Since last week America has admitted receiving 5,000,000 ounces of silver from London. Every rise is attributed to America's intervention. Actually she has lately been disposed to offer the metal.—Reuter.

McLEAN THE HERO OF GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Three Members Of American Walker Cup Team Survive

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 31. Jack McLean, the young Glasgow golfer, is the hero of the British Amateur Championship, which was continued here to-day, writes a correspondent.

In the presence of an enormous and wildly excited crowd he defeated Johnny Fischer, a young man about to enter Harvard University, and one of the most dangerous of the American players.

The Scotsman, played superbly, and, despite all the thrusts of his opponent, a polished and finished golfer, held on grimly to a slender lead of two holes until the seventeenth, where his score was 67.

McLean, who has now established himself as one of the strongest of the British defenders of the title, meets Jesse Gullford, a former American champion.

Three members of the United States team still surviving are George Dunlap, amateur champion; Johnny Goodman, open champion; and Lawson Little, Goodman, who is playing magnificently, defeated a couple of opponents in the easiest manner imaginable. One of them was John Burke, the famous Irish player, who was as many as 5 down at the ninth, where Goodman's score was 34. The American is now a strong favourite for the championship.

Wethered was responsible for one American casualty—Jack Westland, who seemed lost in the wind. Wethered is now faced with a sterner task, his next opponent being Dunlap, who has already had two miraculous escapes.

Among the British players defeated are C. J. H. Toley, who fell to a local shipyard worker; S. L. McKilay, Eric McRuvie, and T. A. Torrance, all members of the Walker Cup team. Others are Stanley Lunt, the English champion, and Rex Hartley.

Battle of Youth

A crowd of 5,000 people, all intensely excited and all dashing hither and thither in the search of vantage points, saw one of the greatest matches in the long history of the championship.

It was between two young men, McLean, the idol of Scottish golf, and Fischer, a Varsity student, of Cincinnati, so tall and thin that it would be imagined that a puff of wind would blow him over. For a man 24 years of age Fischer is the most serious golfer I have ever met. He never smiles, nor does he ever exchange a word with the opponent. Indeed, Fischer plays every shot as if it were a life and death business.

Naturally, the spectators were frantic with delight when McLean won; firstly, because of pride in their hero, and secondly, because it was recognised that Fischer was one of the most dangerous of the American players. I never hope to see a better and a more keenly fought match. The fact that McLean was one under 4's when it ended at the seventeenth is indicative of the high standard of the golf.

The Scotsman had evidently saved his best form for one of the vital matches of the championship. He started 3, 3, 5, 4, 2, 4, and was only one up. Against any other opponent it is not an unreasonable supposition that McLean would have been at least three up.

Great Recovery Shot

A notable hole was the third, where McLean, missing his second shot, was under the sleepers in the great Cardinal bunker. He dug the ball out, pitched his fourth to the back of the green, and holed the putt for a half in 5, to the delirious cheering of the vast crowd.

McLean, who was putting beautifully and with courage, holed one of five yards at the Himalayas for a 2 to become 2 up, and he held on to his gains until the turn, which he reached in 33 to Fischer's 35.

McLean may count himself lucky at the tenth, where, missing a putt of 4ft, he laid his opponent a dead stymie. Failing to lift over, Fischer had to be content with a half in 5. He won the next, however, in 2.

The desperate nature of the encounter may be gathered from the fact that at this point McLean had played eleven holes in 41 shots and was only 1 up. Evidently Fischer could not stand the terrific pace, for at the twelfth he was in the rough with his drive, was bunkered with his second shot, and lost the hole to a 4. He was now 2 down with 5 to play.

Fischer missed a great chance at the fourteenth, where he was left with a putt of 3ft for the hole. McLean, having pitched into a bunker in front of the green. To his obvious annoyance the American missed the putt. McLean saved himself at the sixteenth, where his second shot, too strong was in a bunker at the back of the green. He chipped out and holed the putt for a half in 4.

Nothing that Fischer could do was of any avail. At the seventeenth a long downhill putt for a 3 looked in at the hole and decided to stay out. That was the end, McLean having won by 2 and 1.

The crowd cheered each player impartially for a superb display of golf in an atmosphere charged with excitement.

McLean now meets Jesse Gullford, the Boston "siege gun," a player who as the years creep on tells more on his short game than mighty driving.

Another U.S. Reverse

Wethered carried on the good work by defeating Jack Westland, a Chicago stockbroker, another member of the victorious U.S. Walker Cup team.

Driving much better than has been the case for a considerable time, Wethered was out in 37 despite a 6 at the ninth, and two up. He became three up at the tenth, where Westland was handicapped in the matter of length in a strong head wind.

This was not the Westland we saw at St. Andrews. Unable to make any impression, he was beaten 3 and 2.

The defeat of Toley was unexpected, at least by the Troon artisans who know James Wallace as a sterling golfer with no frills to his game.

A shipwright, 32 years of age, Wallace, for whom a friend acted as caddy, putted with devastating efficiency. Out in 34 and three up, Wallace holed a chip shot at the fifteenth for a 3 to win by 4 and 3. Wallace required three 4's for a score of 69.

The defeat of Eric McRuvie was a distinct loss to Britain's defensive forces. He was beaten by Lawson Little, whose whirlwind golf swept his opponent off his feet. The American began 3, 3, 4, 2, 4, and was three up. McRuvie, however, was only one down at the turn, but he lost the thirteenth where Little's approach pitched into the crowd at the back of the green. He pitched back again and holed the putt for a 4. At the sixteenth, Little practically drove the green, and getting a 3, won by 3 and 2.

Defeat of Torrance

T. A. Torrance, the only British player to win his singles in the Walker Cup match, was beaten by a young West of Scotland golfer Gowan B. Peters, of Fetera, near Glasgow.

A stylish player, 25 years of age, Peters was three down at the turn, having lost four holes in a row. Torrance, out in 35, had played well, but his lead gradually dwindled against the pressure of his opponent. Peters holed a putt of 25 yards at the twelfth for a 4, and having squared the match, ran down a putt of 5 yards for a 3 at the nineteenth to win.

Peters, a player of whom more should be heard, came home in 35. Torrance had the satisfaction of knowing that there was no disgrace in being beaten by a man who completed nineteen holes in one over 4's.

S. L. McKilay, another Walker Cup player, was also beaten, but in a totally different way. He lost 2 and 1 to J. Cameron Conn, of the R. and A. Club, a player with a weird putting style. Conn, however, holed the putts and nothing else matters.

McKilay, who ploughed a way through six bunkers in the course of playing three holes, was out in 4's and 1 down. Two down at the fifteenth, he drove the next green, 225 yards, but took three putts. Cutting his second shot into the Alps bunker, his last chance had gone. I think the last has been heard of McKilay as a Walker Cup player.

LAWN BOWLS

Big Win By C.C.C.

Rink

A team of four from the Craigen-gower C.C. consisting of A. E. Coates, G. L. Buchanan, A. Razack and W. V. Field administered a sound defeat at the Talkoo Club yesterday on a rink comprising A. McKellar, J. F. Lunny, N. M. Currie and W. Muskett. The game was played on a heavy green, and the winners won by the big margin of 40 shots to 4.

At Happy Valley on the Police Green, A. W. Gilmitt playing in the open singles beat F. J. Jones convincingly by 22 shots to 6, leading all the way.

On the Civil Service ground G. Duncan accounted for C. H. Baston by 22 shots to 10. Up to the fourteenth head Baston enjoyed a slight lead, but a four in the fifteenth head by Duncan gave him a lead which he did not relinquish again. Duncan scored a single in the 15th head, and three more in the 17th and thus clinched matters when he had seven points in hand with two more to go. Baston however, pressed him to six heads before succumbing.

J. S. Logan of the Bowling Green beat T. R. Hunter of the Police R.C. by 22 shots to 17. It was a ring-dong match. At the 19th head Hunter was leading 17 to 13, but Logan scored in the next four heads to win.

E. C. Fincher and R. P. Phillips had bad luck to be beaten by W. Simmond and J. Deakin by 16 shots to 15. Fincher and his partner led all the way. At the 18th head they were standing 14 to 13. In the 19th they conceded two points but drew level in the 20th again with a single. In the 21st head they gave their opponents a single shot and victory.

Two games in the Open Singles Lawn Bowls Championship were played in Kowloon yesterday, J. C. Brown beating J. J. Gregory by 21 shots to 10 on the Club de Recreio Green, while at the Kowloon C.C. J. Watson accounted for L. de Rome by 21 shots to 14.

THE RESULTS

Open Singles

G. Duncan beat C. H. Baston 22-10
J. S. Logan beat T. R. Hunter 22-17
A. W. Gilmitt beat F. J. Jones 22-6

J. C. Brown beat J. J. Gregory 21-10
J. Watson beat L. de Rome 21-14

Open Pairs

Simond and Deakin beat Fincher and Phillips 16-15

Open Rinks

Coates, Buchanan, Razack and Field beat McKellar, Lunny, Currie and Muskett 40-4

Capt. G. A. Rusk, of the R. and A. provided a useful chopping block for the sprightly little American, Johnny Goodman, who won the second hole in 2. Despite the shouting of a policeman to clear the course, Goodman hit a magnificent drive down the middle of the fourth fairway, while the gallant captain, mortally afraid of slicing, hooked everything. Playing what seemed very much like a practice round, Goodman was 4 up at the ninth.

Goodman's Only Loss

The only hole he lost was the twelfth where, in giving the hills on the right a wide berth, overlid it and was bunkered on the left. Even so Goodman had an approximate score of level 4's when the match finished at the fourteenth.

Lawson Little's effort against F. L. Rankin, of Sunningdale, was even more impressive. Little, the "Varsity student" from San Francisco, with the cannon ball drive, has also a delicate putting touch. Indeed, Little is the complete golfer.

It must not be imagined that because the American drives unheard-of distances that he is constantly lacking a way out of the rough. Nothing of the kind. Only once in this match was he off the line. This was at the ninth, but taking a deep-faced iron, he crashed the ball on the green.

Little's power is so enormous that he can tear the ball out of almost any lie.

Out in 35 including a self-imposed stymie, the American was 2 up. Rankin had made a gallant fight of it but from this point he suffered a complete collapse. Hitting every drive off the heel to the club and with the face closed, the ball made a feeble dive to square-leg.

After horrid adventures at the eleventh and twelfth holes he picked up at each. Little won by 5 and 3.

HIGH SEAS POWERS

Britain Takes The Initiative

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 31.

On the initiative of the British Government, preliminary negotiations are to begin shortly in preparation for next year's Conference on Naval Disarmament.

Last week Sir John Simon approached the Japanese and American Governments with the proposal that:

The task of this Naval Conference should be, so far as possible, clarified in advance by an exchange of views between the technical experts of the three High Seas Powers.

Such negotiations, it was emphasised by the Foreign Secretary, would be most suitably conducted between any two of the Powers—Britain and America, America and Japan, Japan and Britain—and should be strictly confined to the technical aspects of the problem.

In other words, they should be confined to the limitations to be placed on the tonnage and gun calibre of the various categories of war vessels (capital ships, cruisers, destroyers, etc.).

Political issues, it was contended by the British Government, should be kept out of the preliminary negotiations and reserved to the full Conference.

This exclusion would probably cover the question of naval ratios and naval bases in the Pacific.

Yesterday a favourable reply was received from Washington, while the indications from Tokyo also point to an early and satisfactory answer from that quarter.

France and Italy

Meanwhile, the other two participants in the London Naval Conference—of 1930, France and Italy—have also been invited to undertake, both with each other and with Britain, a similar study of the possibilities of preliminary agreements on technical points.

Neither of these European Powers, it may be recalled, has ratified the 1930 Treaty, mainly on account of the differences which arose between them on the problem of Franco-Italian naval parity.

At a later stage in the preliminary negotiations the five leading Naval Powers will have to settle three important points of procedure. They are:

(1) The opening date of the 1935 Conference;
(2) The venue of the Conference; and
(3) What other Powers, in addition to themselves, should be invited to the Conference.

Some difficulties may arise in connection with the last two points. Japan may consider that, as the 1922 Conference was held in Washington, and that for 1930 in London, next year's Conference should be held in Japan.

Indeed, this course was tentatively suggested during the 1930 Conference. But it may not prove convenient at the present date for several of the interested Powers, owing to the absorption of their Governments by European difficulties.

Undoubtedly Germany, and probably Soviet Russia, will be represented at the Naval Conference, while Spain and the three big South American Republics are possibilities.

The position of the smaller Naval Powers, like Holland, the Scandinavians, Greece, and Turkey, is deemed more problematical.

WHERE POWERS DIFFER

Having regard to the sharply conflicting views on naval limitation held by the five Powers concerned, a preliminary discussion is essential if next year's Naval Conference is not to be foredoomed to failure.

No date for the Conference has been settled as yet, but the British Government is understood to favour its assembly with the least possible delay, and the spring of 1935 is mentioned unofficially, London being the likeliest venue.

The outstanding difficulties which confront the Conference are:

(1) Japan's demand for tonnage equality, in principle, with the British Empire and the U.S. and her threatened repudiation of the 5-5-3 ratio established at Washington in 1922 and perpetuated, with some slight modification, at the London Conference, in 1930.

(2) The known reluctance of France and Italy to enter into any pact for the restriction of submarine and light surface construction.

(3) The impossibility of renewing the Washington-London treaties in their existing form without the adherence of France and Italy.

(4) The German naval renascence and its possibilities as a disturbing factor in the balance of power at sea.

As will be seen, these difficulties are formidable. In British naval circles hopes are entertained that Japan, in the course of friendly talks with British and American spokesmen, may be induced to moderate her demands before the Conference meets.

Far East Bases

This she is the more likely to do if the reported decision of the U.S. to scrap its Far Eastern bases and withdraw all naval forces from those waters is implemented.

France is understood to be adamant in her refusal to accept any tonnage quota of submarines and light craft which could be conceded by the "Big Three," and Italy will certainly decline to restrict her naval development in any way if France retains a free hand.

Of great importance from the British point of view is the following programme, which, it is understood, forms the basis of our plan for the 1935 Conference:

Restriction of capital ships to 25,000 tons and 12in guns, or—if cruisers can be limited to 7,000 tons—to 22,000 tons and 11in guns.

Cruiser maxima reduced to 7,000 tons and 6in guns.

Submarines—Total abolition or alternatively their restriction to less than 300 tons, which would confine them to coastal defence functions.

Japan, France and Italy are favourably disposed to these suggestions except in regard to submarines, but the United States wishes to retain the existing standards of 35,000 tons and 16in guns for capital ships and 10,000 tons and 8in or 6in guns for cruisers.

Japan will formally propose the abolition of aircraft carriers, and it is indicated that she may be prepared to consider some further restriction of submarines as a "quid pro quo."

LEAGUE TENNIS

Graduates Win

Teams in the "B" division were engaged in their league games yesterday when the University, on their own ground, lost to the Club de Recreio by 3 sets to 6. J. J. Remedios and L. A. Carvalho did well for the winners by capturing all the three sets while Y. K. Ng and P. P. So were the best pair for the undergraduates, obtaining two out of three sets.

Scores:—
J. J. Remedios and L. A. Carvalho (Recreio) beat Y. K. Ng and P. P. So 6-1
beat S. M. Lee and P. C. Lee 6-4 beat Mahan Singh and K. M. Lo 6-4

A. A. Remedios and W. A. Reed (Recreio) lost to Ng and So 4-5

at Commons

London, June 13.
The report of the Committee of Privileges was debated in the House of Commons to-night. The debate was opened by the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who, in a brief speech, moved the House to agree with the report, and traced the circumstances which led to the questions raised by Mr. Winston Churchill being referred to the Committee.

He called attention to the paragraph in the report stating that "Your Committee unanimously report that no breach of privilege has been committed by Sir Samuel Hoare or by Earl Derby."

His duty was to put the report before the House. It was due to Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Derby that the House should give a clear cut decision as to whether or not they were guilty of a breach of privilege.

Mr. Churchill, speaking immediately after Mr. MacDonald, said that he did not modify his original charge and claimed that the report established that the Secretary for India and Lord Derby, jointly and severally, from the best of motives and in a perfectly honourable manner, endeavoured to deter the Manchester Chamber of Commerce from presenting evidence that they desired before the joint committee on Indian constitutional reforms. — British Wireless Service.

"PROSPERITY BUILT ON FREE TRADE PRINCIPLE"

shown in the many little difficulties encountered during the first few months of our working operations.

We should also like to thank the public of Hong Kong for the support which they have given to this new local industry. In these times when matters do not look too bright for some of our largest and oldest industries, it is encouraging to feel that as long as we produce a beer of really first quality we can rely on the whole-hearted support of the public of Hong Kong. It is perhaps too much to expect that we can suit the palate of everybody, but we can guarantee the purity of our beer. It is manufactured from the best European malt and hops, with no preservatives or other harmful ingredients of any kind and we intend to adhere strictly to that standard of quality.

I desire to take this opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks to our Office and Brewery staff—both European and Chinese—for the excellent work which they have done during the past year.

I now beg to propose the adoption of the accounts. When this has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer any questions which you may wish to ask.

SECONDER'S SPEECH

Mr. C. Champkin, in seconding the adoption of the Report and Balance Sheet, said—

I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Report and Accounts. I have listened with much interest to the Chairman's speech and I think we may congratulate the Board and management on the very encouraging results they have been able to achieve. I know the general difficulties of newly formed companies and the peculiar disabilities of a producing company that by the nature of its business has to carry on over a long period before it can expect its first returns. The Statement we have before us shows that these difficulties have been courageously met by a liberal provision that will enable us to commence a fresh year's trading free from the anxieties that beset all producing concerns in their earliest stages. As our Chairman has well emphasised, we have acquired a very valuable asset by establishing beyond all doubt the purity and excellence of our products. The only real embarrassment we have had is not, as might be supposed in the case of a new company, the finding of an adequate market for our output, but with the increasing demand from our ever-widening circle of customers. I am glad to see that we are taking steps to free ourselves from this embarrassment by the obvious and profitable means of expanding our producing plant.

I daresay there is a good deal in what the Chairman says about the incapacity of our policy in maintaining Hong Kong as a free port. Events of the past few years have made it increasingly difficult for Free Trade dealers like myself to combat the heresies that assail us and it is not unlikely that we shall eventually succumb (laughter)—but for the present, at any rate, I am afraid we have to accept conditions as they are. I would like to add that I should be better pleased to see the Bank overdraft at a considerably lower figure, but I do not doubt that the directors are fully alive to the desirability of reducing it as soon as possible. All things considered, it seems to me that the Company is forging ahead under capable and economical management and as a shareholder I am quite content with the result that has been put before us to-day. We have good reason to anticipate that this satisfying progress will be maintained and I am sure we are well pleased with the way in which our interests are being looked after by the Board. I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Report and Accounts.

COMMON TOPICS

Hon. Sir William Shenton said: "On the question raised by our Chairman, as to a protective tariff in this Colony for our beer, I fear on general principles, I am not at the moment able to subscribe to all he says."

The prosperity of this Colony has, over a period of nearly a hundred years, been built up upon the basis of what is known as the free port principle, and I for one, am not prepared to go back on this policy, without very deliberate and careful consideration. In these days, tariffs, quotas, and trade agreements, are common topics. A change in this direction in this Colony, in my opinion, is largely a question for our Bankers, Merchants, Shippers, Insurance Companies, Manufacturers, etc. to decide, and until they have given us their considered opinions, I desire to reserve my judgment.

Subject to these remarks I support the adoption of the Report and Accounts.

CHAIRMAN'S REPLY

The Chairman replying to Hon. Sir William Shenton's statement said:—

Before putting the Resolution to the Meeting, may I first make it clear that I do not wish to be understood as advocating the abandoning our free trade policy.

What I desire is a thorough investigation of the advantages and disadvantages of abandoning it, before we decide to stand or fall as one of the few remaining cases of free trade in the Desert of Protection.

The motion for the adoption of the Report and Accounts was unanimously carried.

Mr. Samuel So Wong was re-elected a Director on the proposal of Mr. W. C. Clark and seconded by Mr. W. C. Felshaw.

Messrs. Linstead and Davies were re-elected auditors for the ensuing year at the same remuneration on the proposal of Hon. Sir William Shenton and seconded by Mr. Robertson.

NISH AND YAM

Fight for Surrey
Tennis Title

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 31.
Mr. Hideo Nishimura and "Mr. Jiro Yamagishi" (hereafter to be known as Nish and Yam) strove this afternoon to decide who should be champion of Surrey at lawn tennis.

Surrey, through the Surbiton Club, provided everything except the players—a nice green grass court and white tennis balls, umpire, linesmen, crowd, ballboys, prize-vouchers and a Cup fit for Japanese to fight for.

Nish is the champion of Japan and Number One. Yam comes second in ranking. He speaks English with an American accent, acquired in California.

The red and white rising sun of Japan floated possessively over the ground. Against the book, but thoroughly on his merits, Yam won the match by 6-3, 6-3. In doing so against worthy opposition he revealed himself a player of the very highest class in world tennis. Neither Perry nor Crawford, nor anyone else, will be able to feel sure of beating him.

Rich Variety of Strokes

The crowd, learning to distinguish Yam from Nish, because of his much burlier build, viewed the sparkling final with keen enjoyment. The winner has indeed a rich variety of strokes. His service is at times a cannon ball, but more often an American "kick," swerving one way and breaking the other with extraordinary devil. His forehand he can swing from corner to corner with perfect control and lots of pace; his backhand is steady and unhurried.

His volleys are well angled, and he has the Cochet habit of picking volleys and half-volleys of his toes and sending them back at totally unexpected acute angles over the net. Altogether a player of the richest accomplishments.

His opponent of to-day appeared ordinary in comparison, and I should say that when he does prevail it is just because the elaborate mechanism of the other's game goes wrong. Of that there was no sign to-day except at one period in the first set when the winner, after coming within a point of 3-0, struck a bad patch and netted the ball so frequently that he fell behind to 2-3.

Then he took the next five games in a row, carrying him to 1-0 in his second set. He then dropped two games, but thereafter lost only one more during the match.

The loser was by no means playing badly, and occasionally he achieved a shorter in the way of a forehand return of service, but generally speaking the Japanese champion was overwhelmed by his No. 2.

at or above which up to 16 a misdemeanour, from 12 to 13. At the same time the old proviso making reasonable belief that the girl was 18 or over a good defence to any charge under the Section is omitted.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

LIGHT DUES

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled "An Ordinance to provide for levying in Hongkong Colonial light dues in respect of certain lighthouses and a buoy on or near the coast of the Bahamas and Leeward Islands." He said: The purpose of this Ordinance is sufficiently set out in the Objects and Reasons, thereto.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

PUBLIC WORKS LOAN

The Colonial Treasurer moved the second reading of a Bill intituled "An Ordinance to make provision for a loan of twenty-five million dollars for the carrying out of certain Public works, for the redemption of certain inscribed stock, and for other purposes." He said: During the Committee stage of the Bill I will move three small amendments adding the name of The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation to Clauses 5, (7), 9 and 11. By arrangements with the two banks they will both manage the loan, I should like to add that the prospectus is now in the press and copies will be available to-morrow morning at my office or at the Banks, and copies of application forms will also be available. Applications will be received on June 21.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a second time.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Following the Council a meeting of the Finance Committee was held, the Colonial Secretary presiding, at which votes totalling $79,222, of which particulars had been previously published were adopted.

Under an item for $16,287 for the Attorney General's department (Personal Emoluments), Sir William Shenton asked: I would like to know the position in this case. Why is there an increase in the salary of a first class cadet officer by $18,000?

The Colonial Secretary: We are not paying any more. It is merely an accounting transaction due to the introduction of a new system desired by members of the Council and supported by the Secretary of State that individual officer's salaries shall be shown in the department with which they are for the time being working. It gives a great deal of additional work because the officers have to change from time to time owing to others going on leave, but it does not result in any further expenditure.

Sir William Shenton: The grand total at the end of the year is the same?

The Colonial Secretary: It looks more, but there are corresponding savings on the other side.

KAI TAK

Regarding an item for $6,288 for a Hornsby motor roller for use at the Aerodrome at Kai Tak, Sir William Shenton asked: I should like to know whether the Government is taking any steps to improve the surface of Kai Tak Aerodrome?

The Colonial Secretary: They have ordered this roller. The P.W.D. is endeavouring to lend them a roller for the time being. The matter is receiving the careful attention of the engineer of the Air Force and our engineer with a view to improving the surface of the Aerodrome.

Sir William Shenton: What is the trouble? One of drainage?

The Colonial Secretary: It is want of a roller.

Sir William Shenton: You are not considering, the question of getting some sort of composition for the surface?

The Colonial Secretary: It is being very carefully considered by Major Evans.

Jiro Yamagishi, then, is champion of Surrey. Before long he will have extended the boundaries of his conquests.

Miss Pat Brazier, now 20, made quite a good fight in her final against Mrs. J. B. Pittman in the women's final, but had to surrender it at 8-3, 9-3, in favour of the more mature player. Miss Brazier, indeed, did well to win six games, for Mrs. Pittman was playing bet-

CUSTOMS
OFFICER'S DEATHFuneral This Afternoon

The body of Mr. E. R. Collier, the Chinese Maritime Customs boat officer, who met his death in tragic circumstances at Holbow a few days ago, will be landed at Queen's Pier at 2 o'clock this afternoon; the funeral passing the monument between 2.30 and 3 p.m. Details are lacking in the manner in which Mr. Collier met his death, but a first message received from Holbow on Wednesday evening stated that he succumbed in the American Hospital there as a result of injuries sustained in an explosion.

PONY AUCTION

New Low Level
Records Reached

There was an auction of race ponies at the paddock at Happy Valley yesterday, but bidders were so restrained in their offers, that the auction did not in the least resemble the sales of former days. Not a single pony offered fetched more than $200, while several good class candidates which were offered for sale, had a reserve put on them which, in view of the low prices prevailing, were nothing short of farcical.

Cossack's Beauty, one of the best China ponies racing here was put up with a limit of $1,500. Had the reserve been half the figure, there would probably have been no bidders. Similarly Woodland Stag, Saucy Face, Australian Boy, some of the best Australian ponies racing, had to be withdrawn.

In spite of the low prices however, the auction was not without interest. Delightful Chance, one of this season's subs who have not yet won, fetched $170. Unless the pony goes wrong in training, he must win a race in the second half of the programme. Corrie fetched $200, his second in the Wong Nei Chong Stakes probably accounting for the figure he fetched. Ring Willow changed hands at $105. City of Shanghai $55; Bag and Baggage $45; Cebu, a recent winner of the Macao, only $50 and Rose Leaf $55. Panama was withdrawn. Soldier of Italy, for which Mr. Li Shiu Pang paid $1,100 in February was sold again yesterday for $40.

The lowest price fetched was Kitesap ($10) and Tin Tac and Armistice Day ($15).

LOCAL ESTATES

House Painter Leaves
$72,752

Deal with family affairs in a harmonious way, working and living with diligence and frugality, and abstain from incurring displeasure in dealings with others. This passage was contained in the will of Wong Sun, alias Wong Yuk Shan, a retired restaurant keeper of Wong Ki Li Village, Namhoi district, Kwangtung who leaves his second and fourth sons in equal shares the major part of a fortune of $31,900. Probate of the will has been granted to the two sons mentioned.

Estate in Hongkong to the value of $72,752 was left by Chan Chan Fong, alias Chan A-tok, a house painter who died, intestate, on June 2, 1924. Letters of administration have been granted to Chan Yiu Kul, a son, on another son and a concubine of the deceased renouncing their rights.

SHING MUN FATALITY

Chinese Foreman Drowned
While Swimming

An attempt to swim the Shing Mun River, on Tuesday had a tragic sequel when Lui Chun, 33, a foreman at the Shing Mun Valley Dam Scheme was washed away by a rush of water when about a quarter of the distance across the river.

His companions led by Wong Chung, another foreman, made vain attempts to reach him before he disappeared from sight. The fatality occurred at 1.30 p.m.

ter than against Miss Nuthall in the recent West Kensington final. It is obvious that as soon as Miss Brazier acquires stronger physique she will win her way into the top class.

The Wonderful Breatheable Tablets

Doctors & Physicians Throughout The World Recommend PEPs.

SPECIALLY compounded to deal with the throat, chest and lung dangers of our climate, Peps are a unique and most valuable medicine.

When dissolved in the mouth, Peps tablets give off powerful medicinal fumes, which are breathed direct into the lungs. Peps have an immediate soothing and healing action on the delicate linings of the throat and air-passages.

Peps cut choking phlegm and clear the bronchials. They relieve the chest and stop the most troublesome cough. Take Peps every day. They will protect you against sudden colds, night chills, sore throat, bronchitis, and other chest and lung dangers.

EVERY PEPs TABLET IS SILVER-WRAPPED.

PEPs are sold in handy sealed bottles of chemicals and machine dyes, carrying full directions enclosed in every package.

For THROAT, CHEST & LUNGS.

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, June 13.

The American Oriental Finance Corporation report through their New York agents, Messrs. E.A. Pierce & Co., states:—

Stocks:—Characteristics of the market are essentially unchanged and there is not much fresh buying, as the market is still awaiting a settlement of the labour dispute.

Wheat:—Early selling by commission houses caused little liquidation. There was some hedging on the weakness of the Winnipeg market and on improved weather conditions. The market needs stronger support.

Cotton:—Selling was more active, being mainly induced by rains, but demand proved equal to the selling pressure. The demand included more foreign buying, mostly for late months. The weather report is considered less favourable.

Silver:—The market was quiet and prices were firmer, responding largely to the advance in London where American interests were reported buyers.

THE EXCHANGE MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS. REPORT

Silver prices yesterday were 19 15/16 for both deliveries, rates being 5/16 and 1/4 up for Ready and Forward respectively. Beside the usual American support, India was also a purchaser but the business done was small. The market finished quiet at the prices fixed and apparently a little under quotations was available. In New York the rate was 1/4 up at 45 1/2 and the market steady.

Sterling opened in New York at 5.04 and closed at 5.05. The market was erratic.

Robust indications at the opening but eased off slightly subsequently.

Was on offer at 1/5 1/2 leading to business at 1/5 9/32 for June and possibly 1/5 5/16 for July. At the lunch hour there were sellers at 1/5 1/2 for June, buyers at 1/5 5/16. For July there were sellers at 1/5 5/16 and buyers at 1/5 11/32.

U.S. Dollars
Were the medium of a small business at 36 1/2 for June, closing with sellers at 36 5/16 and buyers at 36 7/16, but the middle rate of 36 1/2 would probably have been accepted.

IN THE AFTERNOON
The market took an upward turn in the afternoon following the tone in Shanghai.

Sterling
Was available at 1/5 5/16 for July, subsequently for June, and at 1/5 11/32 for July. Buyers were poorer but a small business was put through towards the end of the market at 1/5 11/32 June.

Shanghai Dollars
Dollars were on offer at 36 1/2 and were fixed for July delivery at 36 1/2. The market closed with Sterling sellers at 1/5 5/16 and likely buyers at 1/5 11/32. Dollars, sellers at 36 7/16 and likely buyers at 36 1/2, deliveries June.

Sterling improved to 1/31 sellers, buyers offering 1/3 12/16 at which rate business was done. Dollars were higher at 33 3/16 sellers and 33 1/2 buyers.

PRINCE'S VISIT TO SCOTLAND

Inspects Ayr's County Regiment

(Special Air Mail Service)

Glasgow, May 31. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, paying his third visit to Scotland in almost as many months, yesterday inspected the regimental depot at Ayr of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, of which he is Colonel-in-Chief, and afterwards motored to Prestwick to watch the progress of play in the British Amateur Golf Championship on the links of Prestwick Golf Club, of which he is captain.

In the late afternoon he played a round of golf at Turnberry with Brigadier-General A. C. Critchley, James McDowell, the Prestwick professional, and Archie Compton, Coope Hill.

In the interval between his Ayr and Prestwick engagements the Prince gladdened the hearts of at least a proportion of Ayr's school children by making an informal call to Ayr Academy, and pleading successfully with the rector for a half-holiday to mark the occasion.

His Royal Highness spent last night as the guest of Colonel North Dalrymple Hamilton at Bargany, Dalry, and will leave for the South to-day by train from Stranraer.

An Informal Visit.

The royal visit was for the most part of an informal character, and for that reason the time of the Prince's arrival in Ayr was not made public. Comparatively few people, beyond the passengers in the local train to which the Prince's sleeping car was attached at Mauchline, saw him step on to the platform at Ayr about twenty minutes past nine, to be greeted by Major W. Tod, Officer Commanding the regimental depot, and Major R. G. Parsons.

The platform party also included Bailie Ross, representing the Provost of Ayr; Mr. P. A. Thomson, Town Clerk; Mr. James Lowdon, Chief Constable of Ayr; Mr. A. N. Phillips, assisting operating manager of the L.M.S. Railway Company; Mr. Hugh Ross, district goods and passenger manager; Mr. James Toward, stationmaster of Ayr; and Mr. J. Revans, superintendent of L.M.S. Police.

His Royal Highness, who was accompanied by his Equerry, Major John Aird, chatted for a few moments to members of the platform party before entering a waiting car to drive to the barracks. In conversation with Bailie Ross he inquired particularly about the state of employment in the burgh.

Yacht Deck Grandstand.

Public interest in the visit drew crowds of enthusiastic onlookers to the streets adjoining the barracks, and vantage points overlooking the parade ground, among them the deck of a steam yacht lying in a slipway on the seaward side of the barracks, were exploited to the full long before His Royal Highness emerged from the officers' mess wearing the uniform 42nd tartan trousers, khaki tunic, and glengarry bonnet of the regiment.

The parade presented a picturesque sight. In the centre of the barrack square were drawn up the recruits and staff of the depot, numbering 225, with bayonets fixed and swords drawn.

They were under the command of Major Parsons. Flanking them on the right was the pipe band of the 45th Battalion, the Territorial unit of the regiment, wearing kilts of the Erskine tartan in token of the raising of the regiment by Charles Erskine, Earl of Mar. On the left were 150 ranks of the 45th Battalion, uniformed but not armed, and commanded by Colonel M. B. Buchanan, and alongside the Territorials, ranged in two files at right angles to one another, stood 200 ex-Service men of the regimental Old Comrades' Association, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel A. C. Adair.

Chats With Veterans.

The Prince, carried out the inspection of the units in company with Major Tod, Major Aird, who wore the uniform of the Grenadier Guards, Lieutenant R. S. McNaught, depot Adjutant, and Captain E. P. O. Boyle. As he passed along the leading ranks of recruits the pipers played "The Road to the Isles" and at the close of the inspection His Royal Highness took the salute as the Territorial and ex-Service men marched from the parade ground.

The Prince was particularly interested in the parade of the veterans, many of whom wore the medals of more than one campaign, and he spoke to several of them, including Samuel Wallace, Dundee, whom he had met behind the lines at Loos during the Great War. Former members of the regiment had come from places as far apart as Fort William and Barrhill to attend the parade. One of the oldest of the veterans, Colour Sergeant David McArdle, Maybole, who is 80 years of age, was wearing the Afghan Medal for the march from Kabul to Kandahar.

A number of wives of officers, warrant officers, and N.C.O.'s were afterwards presented to the Prince, who later saw recruit squads at musketry training and physical drill before being photographed in a group composed of the depot staff.

Holiday For School Children

On leaving the barracks His Royal Highness paid an informal visit to Ayr Academy the cadet corps of which is affiliated to the 4th/5th Battalion of the Royal Scots Fusiliers. The corps and other pupils of the school were assembled in front of the building.

His Royal Highness spoke for some time to the rector, Dr. Ritchie, and asked that the pupils should be given a holiday to mark the occasion.

Dr. Ritchie readily assented, and the Prince himself, amid delighted cheers, announced the concession to the children. During his stay he inspected the cadet corps, and was introduced to Captain T. B. Watson, the gymnastic instructor.

Round Of Golf At Turnberry

The Prince arrived at the Prestwick Clubhouse about half-past twelve and came out on to the course almost immediately, carrying a shooting stick and wearing a grey checked plus four suit with a black pull-over and scarlet tie. He was hatless.

Along with officials of the Prestwick Golf Club and of the R. and A., he went straight to the seventeenth hole, where Roger Wethered and George T. Dunlop were in the closing stages of their game.

He spent some time watching various players, and sat for a while on a hill overlooking the sixth green. As the Prince was going back for lunch along the thirteenth fairway crowds of holidaymakers broke through the ropes and rushed down the hillside, forming a cheering lane through which His Royal Highness passed.

Records Of The "Open"

In the clubhouse the Prince, who remained on the links until the late afternoon, was shown interesting records of the Open Championship, which owes its inception to Prestwick Golf Club. Subsequently he left for Turnberry, where he had a round of golf, and where he is expected to play again this forenoon. Later to-day he will pass through Girvan on his way South, and headmasters have been asked to co-operate in giving him a welcome as he passes through the town by having pupils lined up for his arrival.

HOME RACING

Pharacre's Victory

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 31. Fine weather and the promise of some interesting racing attracted a fairly large attendance of the Bath Spring Meeting. The turf on this course is very old, with the result that the going was quite good.

The most important event on the afternoon's programme, the Bath Spring Handicap, was won by Captain Wills with his five-year-old horse Pharacre, trained by Fred Butters at a very famous training establishment, Kingsclere, which Butters has just taken over. Pharacre had not won since being successful last summer in the race for the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood and had not been seen on a racecourse this year. He was ridden yesterday by Beary, who was seen to great advantage on the horse. When Flower of Zion, who had run very well in the Stewards' Handicap at Kempton Park, drew out with the lead from the distance it seemed reasonably certain that she would win and give Richards another winning ride.

Flower of Zion weakened near the finish, and coming with a strong run Pharacre got up near the winning-post and won by a neck. Shell of Gold, who had always been prominent, was beaten for second place by only a head. Flying Spear II, who was well backed, was up with the leaders for rather more than three furlongs, but was beaten soon afterwards.

A Useful Two-Year-Old

Although Circumspect certainly had a good chance in the Dyrham Maiden Plate for three-year-olds, Celebrant was made the better favourite. Ridden by Fox, Circumspect was in front at the end of half a mile and remained there until the race was over. Celebrant challenged strongly below the distance, but Circumspect had plenty in reserve and drew away again, winning by three lengths. Bellacose, a colt by Sir Cosmo, must be a useful sort of two-year-old, for he followed up his win at Wolverhampton by winning the Badminton Plate rather comfortably, carrying 9 st. 5 lb. He was always well placed and drew out into the lead two furlongs from the finish, winning by a length and a half from the Gloriation gelding, who was ridden by Carlisle. Lithia, who shared favouritism with Bellacose, had every chance, but was not good enough and finished seventh. Ballon Prince, after making the running for three furlongs, just missed a place.

Johnstone rode a perfectly judged race to win the Dordington Handicap for Mr. J. E. Rowson on Yum Yum. It was not until the Straight was reached that Johnstone attempted to move up. Then, after Samoit had drawn out clear, Yum Yum was sent with a strong run. Taking the lead a furlong from the finish Yum Yum won by two lengths. Samoit was second and Snipe third. Yum Yum was bought by Mr. Rowson after she had won a long-distance selling race last year at Newbury. This was her first success since Mr. Rowson has owned her. She stayed well and so should win more races, and after her racing career is over should have a definite stud value. I rather suspect that her owner bought her originally in the hope that she would win races for him, but with the idea that one day she would take the place in his small stud of Princess of Mars, who has for a long time been a very useful brood mare to him.

Richard's 50th Winner.

G. Richards, who has as large a following here as anywhere else, if not a larger one, won the first event of the afternoon, the Lansdown Selling Plate, on the Amity gelding, who started a pronounced favourite. It was only in the last furlong that the Amity gelding got on challenging terms with the Silver Somme filly, who had made the running. It was not until the judge had given his decision that any visitor could have known which of the two had won. He decided in favour of the Amity gelding by a short head. F. Harpigan gave 250 guineas for the winner after the race. The Amity gelding is by McKinley, a sire who has been successful in France but when standing in this country was a comparative failure. Richards rode his fiftieth winner of the season when he won the Traders' Selling Handicap on Sharpshooter, trained by Templeman, who always saddles a number of winners at meetings held on this course. Mrs. R. Marks bought the winner after the race for 150 guineas.

cose, had every chance, but was not good enough and finished seventh. Ballon Prince, after making the running for three furlongs, just missed a place.

Other Changes

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 31.
Sir Kingsley Wood, the Postmaster-General, yesterday opened the new General Post Office at Cambridge, inspected the various Post Office departments, and in the evening was the principal guest at a dinner of the Cambridge
Chamber of Commerce.In opening the new General Post Office Sir Kingsley Wood said that he anticipated that next August
Great Britain would have an issue of new postage stamps, beginning with the 1d. stamp, the remaining denominations being made available at intervals of a few weeks. An endeavour was being made to produce stamps of a more pleasing appearance. There would be minor changes in the design with a more solid background displaying his Majesty's head in relief and the colours would be of a richer character. The stamps were being printed by the photo-gravure process by Messrs. Harrison of London.The criticism was sometimes made that our stamps remained substantially unaltered. It was the valued tradition of Great Britain that our stamps should always bear the effigy of the ruling Sovereign. Philatelists would no doubt approve the policy that it was no function of the Post Office to make revenue out of stamp collectors by creating unnecessary issues. Any variation in the size would mean the complete alteration of stamp machines, of which there were 9,000 in London alone. Great Britain was the first country to issue adhesive stamps, and it could be truly claimed that they were among the best printed stamps in the world.SHIPPING MOVEMENTSThe (Canadian Pacific Steam-
